Bishop Schofield Dies Suddenly In Chair At His Home

Beloved Leader of Anglican Church Who Was Guiding Force Behind Construction of Christ Church Cathedral, Succumbs to Heart Attack; Appeared at Services Yesterday Morning in Good Health

Funeral Services Set For Tomorrow

With suddenness which shocked the Anglican Church here, Right Rev. Charles de Veber Schofield, M.A., D.D., Bishop of Columbia since 1916, died at his home yesterday evening at 6:20 o'clock. Death was due to a heart attack.

The bishop passed away while sitting in a chair in the living-room of his home in the Uplands. Mrs. Schofield had gone into the garden for a few minutes and when she returned to the house he had succumbed.

His Lordship made his final appearance in the pulpit yesterday morning at Christ Church Cathedral. He read both lessons and gave the blessing. Later he inspected the new cathedral bells which arrived on Saturday.

His apparent good health yesterday morning was commented upon by many members of the congregation. It was the first time he had taken such an active part in a cathedral service for many months. His death climaxed a lengthy illness which a year resulted in the appointment of a bishop-coadjutor in the diocese.

Memorial services for the bishop were held in a number of Anglican churches yesterday evening.

FUNERAL TOMORROW
Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Christ Church Cathedral and the remains will be forwarded to Vancouver for cremation. There will be a requiem celebration of the holy communion at 9 o'clock in the morning.

The clergy of the diocese are requested to assemble at the cathedral with their robes at 3 o'clock for the funeral services.

Christ Church Cathedral, which was consecrated by Bishop Schofield on September 28, 1929, will stand as a memorial to his work in the Anglican Church and the efforts which he made to establish a rallying point on the Pacific Coast for the Church of England.

Seattle Congressman Reported Hiding in Capitol Building in Washington

Associated Press
Washington, June 29.—Marion A. Zioncheck, member of the House of Representatives from Washington State, who escaped from a Towns, Md., sanitarium, last night, was reported today to be hiding in his Capitol office, but the report could not be verified.

The basis for the report was that a building employee was "supposed to have seen" the Seattle Congressman enter his suite.

Newsmen were unable to gain admission to the office. Telephone calls were not answered.

A Capitol policeman stood guard at the door of the representative's office, which was occupied.

The office at the door and other responsible building and Capitol officials disclaimed any definite knowledge as to whether the Congressman was in his office.

During the forenoon a warrant for the arrest of the representative was issued by District Attorney Leslie Garrett. The warrant was based on the complaint of Mrs. Benjamin Scott Young, who sublet an apartment to Zioncheck some time ago.

She alleged she had been injured in struggles with the Zionchecks for possession of the apartment a few weeks ago. A similar warrant has been issued for Mrs. Zioncheck, the former Ruby Taylor Nix.

Observers who spied on the office with binoculars from across a court said they had seen Zioncheck there. Zioncheck was in the Maryland sanitarium following cancellation by a judge in Washington last Friday of the sanity hearing in the capital. Relatives had undertaken to have him treated there.

Haile Selassie Will Be Heard By League Assembly

Emperor, as Delegates Tomorrow Consider Sanctions and Italy, Will Ask For Justice For Ethiopia

Associated Press
Geneva, June 29.—Emperor Haile Selassie's spokesman announced today the Negus personally would address the League of Nations Assembly in an appeal for "justice."

The assembly will meet at 5 p.m. tomorrow (8 a.m. P.S.T.) Selassie, now known by the Italian conquerors as "Signor Tafari," worked on the text of his appeal in the seclusion of his hotel suite today. It will be delivered in French.

The Argentine delegation, which took the initiative in calling tomorrow's Assembly session to deal with the sanctions question, intended to visit him late today.

TO LIMIT SPEECHES
Speedy funeral services, with a minimum of oratory, were planned over the sanctions against Italy. But the question which confronted statesmen was whether the Assembly would endorse the doctrine of non-recognition of territory acquired by force.

Such action was believed to have been the subject of conversations today between Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Great Britain, the Argentine Minister Manuel E. Maizran and Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France.

Six Nanking (Northern) Planes Attack Kwangsi and Kwangtung Forces; Gen. Li Urges Southerners Speed Moves Against Japanese

NO MORE DELAY
Gen. Li declared in a speech any further delay in launching the expedition would be disastrous.

"The mission is twofold," he said. "First we must resist Japanese aggression. Then we must remove all obstacles in the way, including national traitors."

Gunboats of the Canton (southern) government were reported moving toward the island of Hainan to forestall what was described to be a northern attempt to capture the mountainous base.

J. J. Huggard Tells Los Angeles Police He Is Wanted in Toronto

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Calif., June 29.—A man who said he was John Joseph Huggard, thirty-six, an attorney, walked into police headquarters last night and informed Lieut. S. N. Spanach and Lieut. T. H. Rankin he was wanted on a $40,000 embezzlement charge in Toronto.

Officers quoted him as saying: "I'm at the end of my tether. This will be hanging over me all my life. I want to pay my debt to justice, and get it over."

He was booked on a suspicion of fugitive charge pending word from Toronto, where a full report was sent.

The officers said he told them he had speculated with clients' securities in the stock market in an effort to recoup apparently bad investments made for his wife. He declared that ironically his wife's investment was successful, but the others lost. Then the brokerage firm in Seaford, Ont., through which he dealt failed, and he declared he fled April 29, making his way from New York to the coast.

Four Perish in Lake Champlain; Tragedies Elsewhere in United States

Associated Press
New York, June 29.—At least nine persons died in airplane accidents in the United States over the week-end. Frank Saglimbene, thirty, piloting a plane from New York to Montreal on a "goodwill" flight, plunged to death in the water of Lake Champlain, carrying with him three passengers—Steve Kaye, George W. Ericson and Dolly Zarling. All lived in the metropolitan area.

Off Daytona Beach, Fla., Al Stanley, twenty-nine, a band leader, died in the water of Lake Champlain, carrying with him three passengers—Steve Kaye, George W. Ericson and Dolly Zarling. All lived in the metropolitan area.

Near Marysville, Ohio, Flying Cadet Joseph P. Peasants, whose home was in Wytheville, Va., died in the crash of his low-flying ship.

On Long Island Joseph Franco, twenty-four, and Anthony Trinken, twenty-two, both of New York, were half buried and killed as the plane they had rented plummeted from a height of several hundred feet.

Two Ministers Cross Atlantic

Dunning Voyaging to England; Also Euler, Who May Visit Russia

Ottawa, June 29.—The exodus of Cabinet ministers from the capital continues. Finance Minister Dunning and Trade Minister Euler have started for England and most of the other ministers are back in their own provinces.

Prime Minister King has remained in the city or at his nearby mountain home. He will go to Geneva in September to head Canada's delegation to the League of Nations meeting being called mainly for reorganization.

The Prime Minister was reported in some circles today to be considering a change in Canada's representation at the League capital, a report that gave rise to immediate rumors, discounted in official circles, that Dr. W. A. Riddell, the nation's permanent advisory officer at Geneva, might be recalled or transferred to another post.

TO SELL MORE WHEAT

Mr. Dunning is expected to attempt sale in Europe of more of this nation's wheat surplus. Mr. Euler's departmental experts already have been in England more than a fortnight. He will survey their work, go to Genoa (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

LIGHT ASKED ON SPEECHES

British Labor M.P.'s Want to Know If Ministers Commit Government

Canadian Press
London, June 29.—Members of the Labor Party today obtained the permission of the Speaker of the House of Commons to hold an "emergency debate" in the House tonight on several recent speeches by cabinet ministers.

The Labor members seek to know if cabinet ministers are speaking for themselves or the government when they make public speeches.

CHAMBERLAIN'S REMARKS
In particular, they wish to discuss the speech of Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, nine days ago, in which he advocated the sanctions against Italy be dropped.

As that of Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, Secretary for War, in Paris, June 24. (In his speech to a French audience, Mr. Duff Cooper said, among other things, "Your frontiers are our frontiers.")

Meantime, Prime Minister Baldwin remained at his country residence, Chequers, where he spent the week-end. It was announced he planned to remain there a few days more for a rest.

JUST BEFORE ASSEMBLY
The Labor motion on which the debate will be based calls attention to the speech of the Secretary for War in a foreign country immediately prior to the meeting of the League of Nations Assembly (which will open at Geneva tomorrow).

Asserting it conflicts with the government's declared foreign policy and with existing treaty obligations.

TWO WOMEN IN PLANE CRASH

One, With Back Injuries, Is in Portland, Oregon, Hospital

Associated Press
Portland, Ore., June 29.—Details of an airplane crash on a fog cloaked mountain top were told today by two women fliers who escaped serious injury and spent more than twenty-four hours hiking out of the wilderness.

The women, Mrs. Alyce Pashburg and Miss Irma Westover, were brought to a Portland hospital yesterday, the latter suffering from back injuries. Mrs. Pashburg, the pilot, escaped with scratches and bruises.

A few minutes after taking off from Vancouver, Wash., early Saturday, they encountered a thick fog bank. In attempting to fly under it they crashed on Archer Mountain, fourteen miles northeast of Astoria, Wash.

Airmen located the wreckage of the plane yesterday. Louis Robinson, a farmer, accompanied by one of the fliers, started hiking toward the plane and found the women.

TWO MEN CLAIM $143,000 IN BONDS

Governments Must Decide to Which Roy Ford in Mississippi State Securities Were Mailed From British Columbia

Associated Press
Laurel, Miss., June 29.—A fortune of $143,000 in bonds, variously reported to be a legacy from a friend and a payment for a winning lottery ticket, was claimed today by two men with the same name.

The bonds were received last Thursday by Roy Ford, a pharmacist at Miss. Miss. Another Roy Ford, a farmer living about eight miles from Miss., also claimed the bonds. The Fords are distant cousins.

The decision as to whom the bonds belonged to rested today with postal inspectors, who were holding them.

The pharmacist neither affirmed nor denied reports that a nurse who attended him when he was gassed in France had willed the money to him.

The farmer intimated he had won the money on a lottery ticket. The bonds were mailed from Canada.

GOVERNMENTS TO DECIDE
Said Druggist Ford: "The two governments, the United States and Canada, are handling this and I'm waiting until they settle the matter before saying anything."

Owned By H. A. Wallace of Vancouver, Craft Ran Ashore in Ganges Harbor at Midnight Saturday; Party of Six Rescued By Police Boat; Fire Breaks Out When Repairs Being Made Sunday

One of Best Sailing Craft in Northwest

The veteran yawl Minerva of Vancouver, on her way to Victoria for this week's regatta, had a spectacular end, and two men narrowly escaped death when she ran aground off Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island, Saturday at midnight, and blew up yesterday morning. She was valued at $15,000, and was owned by H. A. Wallace of Vancouver. She is a total loss.

Six Vancouver yachtsmen, including Peter Marshall, Jack McDougall, Herbert Stacey and Jack Campbell, were aboard when Minerva grounded in a shallow bay as she was approaching Ganges Harbor Saturday midnight.

Mr. McDougall and Nels Nelson, a Ganges plumber, were aboard the craft yesterday morning when she took fire, barely escaping before the craft blew up. Mr. McDougall was burned slightly about the arms and hands as he waited to warn the plumber to leave the ship.

Mr. Wallace was not aboard Minerva at the time of the mishap. He was at Qualicum Beach, but rushed to Salt Spring Island as soon as he heard of the grounding and explosion.

TRIED TO FLOAT HER
Shortly after the yacht ran ashore, Provincial Police boat No. 6, stationed at Ganges and in charge of Corpl. D. O. Tweed, went to the assistance of Minerva and tried until 3 o'clock Sunday morning to release her. She would not budge, however, and the party left and went to Ganges in the police boat, hoping the high tide in the morning would release her craft.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. McDougall returned to the stranded boat. A leak in the gas valve was noticed. A match was lit and this ignited gasoline lying in the bilge, which had escaped through the leaky valve. There was an explosion and the woodwork caught fire.

Stored on Minerva were 100 gallons of gasoline. Within a few minutes there was a series of explosions, which could be heard for miles, and Minerva was enveloped in a mass of flames, which attracted hundreds of Salt Spring residents and visitors. It took less than half an hour to totally destroy the yawl.

"I could almost weep when I think about it," said Mr. Wallace over the long distance telephone from Harbor House at Ganges this morning. "She was the greatest ship in these waters. In spite of new boats she would always win."

BUILT IN HONGKONG
Minerva was built in Hongkong in 1908 and came here lashed to the deck of the old liner Empress of India. She has been one of the smartest racing boats in northwest waters and has won many trophies. She was fifty feet in length, with a beam of thirteen feet.

Eleven times in her career she won the famed Beaver Cup, taking it for the last time only a week ago. She first won it the year she arrived from Hongkong.

Mr. Wallace said he and his shipmates were this afternoon going in a small boat to the place where Minerva spent her last hours to place a wreath on the water in her memory.

The spot where Minerva ran aground is deceptive, residents of Salt Spring said. From a distance there appears to be deep water. There is no light.

Minerva was covered by insurance and Mr. Wallace waited at Salt Spring today for the arrival of an adjuster from Vancouver.

Despite his loss, Mr. Wallace, who is connected with the Wallace shipyards in Vancouver, intends to come here to be a spectator, instead of a contestant, at the regatta. It is probable, however, some other Vancouver yachtsman will sign him on as a member of his crew.

NO NAVY PACT FOR JAPANESE

It was Bishop Schofield who was the untiring force behind the movement for a cathedral here and success came to his efforts after several former campaigns had failed.

In its construction he foresaw the creation of an international centre of worship here and an outpost of Christian religion on the Pacific Coast, stretching out a hand to the Orient. He pictured the cathedral as a counterpart of the great cathedral at Liverpool.

CANADIAN BORN

Bishop Schofield was born in St. John, N.B., on July 14, 1871, the son of George Arthur and Bertha Jane Schofield. He received his early education in private and grammar schools of his native city and later attended King's College, Windsor, N.E.

With his mind set to enter the clergy young Schofield went to Edinburgh Theological College and Leeds Clergy School for his clerical training.

In 1896 he was ordained by the late Bishop of Canterbury, Dr. Randall Davidson, then Bishop of Winchester, and his first appointment was to the curacy of Portsea, England.

Three years later he returned to Canada and became rector of Hampton Church, King's County, N.B. For five years he remained there, being appointed rector of Christ Church, Sydney, N.S. He served in that parish until he was made Dean of Fredericton in 1907.

Eight years later he came west to take over the appointment as rector of Christ Church Cathedral here. At this time also he was made Bishop of Columbia.

A year later, on St. Andrew's Day, November 30, 1916, he was consecrated Bishop of Columbia, succeeding the late Bishop Austin Scriven.

PROGRESSIVE WORK

During his twenty years as bishop of this diocese he was responsible for many progressive changes. He was an exceptionally able man from a spiritual, financial and administrative point of view.

Although restraint was one of his characteristics he was quick but not impetuous. He was warm-hearted but not sentimental, and as a born leader he led easily and led well. Those who knew him intimately knew the humanness of his heart and the great understanding he had of his fellow men.

It was this characteristic, which led him into his philanthropic and welfare work.

He was president of the Columbia Coast Mission and took more than usual interest in its hospital and spiritual activities.

One of his greatest welfare interests was the needs of returned men and unemployed. He was president of the Red Cross Workshop here, and to assist unemployed he lent his valuable assistance in the organization of the Citizens' Recreation Room.

Outstanding among his material accomplishments here was of course, the construction of the cathedral. To realize the fruition of this dream he worked endlessly in taking up the campaigning which others had dropped in years preceding his arrival here.

It was one of his great hopes that he would be spared to hear the bells toll from the northwest tower. Had he lived two weeks more this dream would have been realized.

The bells will be dedicated on July 12.

As bishop of this diocese, Mr. Schofield was a prominent member of the House of Bishops, where his clear-headed, far-seeing and practical vision was recognized by his colleagues.

He was married at St. John, N.B., to Emily May McAvity on April 6, 1904. She survives him with two daughters, Mrs. Nairn Robertson and Mrs. J. M. Wilson, both of Victoria.

Nanking, June 29.—Japanese propagandists were charged today by central government officials with circulating false reports of military victory.

The accusation followed declarations northern forces in Fukien province had split from the Nanking government and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Far into the night hospital attendants, reinforced by police officers, combed the estate and searched elsewhere for their missing patient.

Dr. Arthur E. Patten of the Detective Bureau, as saying Washington police would not arrest Zioncheck if he appeared there and abided by the law.

ELECTION FIGHT

Mrs. Zioncheck's attorney expressed a hope that Zioncheck had got out of Maryland and would stay away and rest.

"He needs it," Ammerman said. "I think you'll find him out there (in Washington State) battling in the primaries (for renomination) pretty soon."

He added that if Zioncheck should return to the District of Columbia, he would be safe from detention since the sanity hearing was dropped when a judge accepted an application last Friday.

The Washington Post quoted Bernard W. Thompson, chief of the Detective Bureau, as saying Washington police would not arrest Zioncheck if he appeared there and abided by the law.

Thompson was quoted as adding, however, that if the Congressman returned some of his "daredevil antics," "like speeding eighty miles an hour, we'd have to pick him up."

Tokio Formally Refuses to Adhere to 1936 British-U.S.-French Treaty

Associated Press

London, June 29.—The Japanese Government formally notified the British Government today it would not adhere to the 1936 international naval treaty.

It was stated the move might jeopardize some provisions of the new treaty signed by Great Britain, the United States, and France last March since certain provisions were made to become operative only if Japan should join.

Great Britain has been negotiating with Russia, Poland and Germany in recent months, seeking to bring them within the framework of the new treaty. The government sought to reach bilateral agreements with those three powers, and eventually to add them as signatories of the tri-power agreement of last March.

After the end of this year, the Washington Naval Treaty of 1922 and the London Naval Treaty of 1930 will no longer be in effect. Japan has denounced the former and the latter will automatically lapse December 31, next.

Britain had hoped Japan would enter into the tri-power treaty and that Italy also would adhere to it.

Both powers joined in the conversations opening in London last December, along with Britain, the United States and France. But Japan left when the other powers declined to agree to her demands that naval parity be discussed first. Italy declined to sign the treaty because of the economic sanctions imposed upon her by the League of Nations.

Under the 1936 pact capital ships are limited to the present maximum of 35,000 tons displacement. The treaty provided that gun caliber on these ships would be limited to 14 inches (instead of 16 inches as the older treaties) if Japan and Italy, the other Washington treaty signatories, conformed.

many and possibly Russia to discuss trade matters.

In this connection the government was faced with a statement about ten days ago by the official Tass Russian news agency that the U.S.S.R. would not lift its embargo against Canadian foods while an embargo on most of its products, applied by the former Conservative government, remained in effect.

Both ministers will discuss with members of the United Kingdom government the groundwork of next year's imperial conference which will be held in London.

Hon. James Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, is now in the west. He will go to England at the middle of July. There he is expected to make a further survey of the wheat situation, examining the British and foreign market situations. He may suggest to his colleagues the personnel of the royal commission to investigate the general problem of wheat marketing.

The only relief obtained since June 19 has been when sleeping draughts have been administered to give her rest and sleep.

The girl, who has never suffered from hay fever, is now undergoing "abundant" treatment and her body has been banded so as to avert injury during the sneezing spasms.

SCRIP ISSUE IS TO BE $100,000

First Month Will Be Aberhart Scheme's Big Test, Says Alberta Minister

Associated Press

Vegreville, Alta., June 29.—The Aberhart government's first issue of scrip will be $50,000 to $100,000, confined entirely to certificates of $1 denomination, and if an unduly large amount is returned for redemption at the end of the first month, the government will concede the scheme is a failure, according to Hon. Lucien Maynard, Minister without portfolio.

Mr. Maynard and other Social Credit speakers told a meeting at Vegreville that if the scheme failed it would be due entirely to lack of co-operation from people whose confidence had been undermined through "misrepresentation of the capitalistic press."

"The fight against organized finance is just starting," declared Mr. Maynard.

Much Money For New China Army

Nanking, China, June 29.—Loosely-knit China plans to earmark $500,000,000 for military equipment and education in its budget estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

FOREST FIRE IS INVESTIGATED

Nelson, B.C., June 29.—British Columbia police today were investigating the eighth recent forest fire in the Doukhobor district near here.

The last of these fires was reported from Glade, B.C., on Saturday.

Three schools, a sawmill and a community hall were damaged in recent deprivations in the Doukhobor district.

Conservatives In Convention

B.C. Delegates in Vancouver Will Choose Leader; B. Hoole Protests $20 Levy

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 29.—The British Columbia Conservative Party convention today named committees to carry out the business of formulating a platform and naming a new chief.

As close to 400 delegates gathered in the Vancouver convention hall from all parts of British Columbia, it was forecast the body would not have the preliminary committee work finished before tomorrow. Then the names of half a dozen eligible will be put before the delegates and from them a new leader will be chosen to guide the party in the next election campaign.

SAYS FEE TOO HIGH

Early convention calm was broken when Brian Hoole, president of the Saanich Conservative Club, protested warmly against the levy of $20 per delegate. He considered the charge ultra vires of the party constitution and moved that the convention have power to waive it in favor of any "impecunious delegation."

The Vancouver Island delegate claimed it was against democratic principles to deprive a representative of his vote if he were unable to meet the fee.

The protest was taken under consideration by the executive, for a decision to be made before the delegates gathered at the 9 o'clock this afternoon.

One of those mentioned for the leadership was Dr. Frank Patterson of Vancouver, president of the provincial Conservatives.

Another man named in informal discussions was Herbert Anscomb, M.P., whose projected nomination was supported by a strong delegation from Victoria. R. L. Maitland, former Conservative minister without portfolio, was also mentioned.

BENNETT TO SPEAK

It was expected generally that the new leader would be named late tomorrow before R. B. Bennett, federal Conservative leader, brings the meeting to a close.

Resignation of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., as provincial party head, was already drafted and was in the hands of President Patterson, it was learned authoritatively.

The meeting today was opened formally by Dr. Patterson and throughout the morning the committee on committees, under Hon. Grose Stirling, M.P., drafted other committees.

Chairmen of the various committees were named as follows: Credentials, W. C. Moresby, K.C., Victoria; resolutions, Mr. Stirling.

Chairmen of sub-committees: Central policies, Mr. Moresby; mines and prospecting, Dr. A. W. Alward, Prince George; agriculture and lands, J. W. Berrie, Langley; finance and taxation, E. G. Sherwood, Vancouver; public works, Ralf Bruhn, M.P., for Salmon Arm; timber and forests, R. H. Pooley, M.P., for Esquimalt, and education, R. C. Wendell.

RESOLUTIONS DRAFTED

It was indicated resolutions would be submitted to the delegates favoring reductions in the number of members of the Legislature and appointment of a commission to supervise highways throughout the province.

Tomorrow morning special attention will be given to resolutions from constituent associations.

Following Tuesday's luncheon adjournment the Burrard Women's Conservative Association will hold a luncheon gathering at which Mrs. W. D. Hendrick, sister of R. B. Bennett, will be guest of honor.

NURSES MEET IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 29.—Black and olive costumes of nursing sisters mingled with colorful street clothes worn by public health and duty nurses as more than 300 delegates of the Canadian Nurses' Association gathered here from all parts of Canada for the association's convention, opened with a meeting of the executive committee.

In the afternoon the general sessions were officially opened with an address by the president, Miss Ruby M. Simpson of Regina, following the reading of the invocation by Archbishop F. C. G. Heathcote of Vancouver.

A proposed curriculum for schools of nursing in Canada, the direct outcome of a 1928-31 survey of nursing education in the Dominion conducted by Hon. G. M. Weir, now British Columbia Provincial Secretary, will be the outstanding item under discussion at the convention.

An official welcome will be tendered the delegates tonight by Premier T. D. Pattullo, Mayor G. O. McGowan, Dr. L. S. Killick, president of the University of British Columbia, Dr. H. B. Milburn, president of the British Columbia Medical Association, and Miss Grace Fairley, head of the Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia.

Charge Follows Death of Girl

Edith Pickens Returned to Vancouver From Blaine; W. Thompson Found Dead

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 29.—A thirty-nine-year-old woman today was charged with the abortion murder of Helen S. McDowell, who died in a hospital Saturday less than twenty-four hours before her fiancé was found dead in a hotel from apparently self-inflicted wrist wounds.

Miss McDowell gave a statement to police from her hospital cot before she died, and authorities immediately set out for Blaine, Wash., on the international border, where they arrested Edith Pearl Pickens. She was returned to Vancouver and charged with murder.

BODY FOUND IN HOTEL

Meanwhile William Thompson, thirty engineer on a coastal steamer and fiancé of Miss McDowell, was found dead in a downtown hotel with his wrists slashed.

Police were unaware of the case until Saturday, although Miss Mc-Dowell had been in the hospital for nearly a week. They were called to the institution by the woman's doctor. Thompson was at the side of the dying woman when authorities arrived and was in an extremely agitated condition.

Hospital doctors told police Miss McDowell apparently had been recovering after treatment until a heart ailment set in Saturday.

Paris, June 29.—Count Charles de Lasteyrie, fifty-nine, deputy and former Finance Minister, died yesterday.

Urges League "Nonsense" End

Field Marshal Chetwode Addresses British United Services Corps

London, June 29.—League of Nations protocols and regional agreements were described as poor "peace insurance" by Field Marshal Sir Philip Chetwode yesterday at the annual review of the United Services Corps, an organization of men who have served terms of enlistment in His Majesty's forces.
"It is up to them like you to show how desperately dangerous the situation is at the present time," he declared. "Full ranks all over the empire are the greatest insurance for the peace of the world. They are better than all the League's speeches, protocols and regional agreements and all the rest of that nonsense we have heard so much about lately."
"Mussolini and Hitler have shown they are worth no more than scraps of paper," he asserted. "You men, with the example you set, are doing more than I can say toward getting that sort of nonsense out of the heads of our young men."

RELIEF CAMPS ARE EMPTIED

Centres Across Canada Will Be Closed Wednesday As Scheduled; Most of Men Now Working

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 29.—Labor camps for homeless unemployed men will be closed Wednesday. Before the session of Parliament ended Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, announced the numbers in the camps had been reduced to 1,500 and the camps would be closed July 1. Reports received by the department since then indicated evacuation of the camps was going on according to schedule.
Most of the men have gone to make up the 10,000 additional required for deferred maintenance work on the railway. They are getting regular wages instead of the 20 cents a day, board and lodging they received under the camp system.
Other men have been absorbed in various branches of industry and some, 650 on June 15, have gone to work on farms. Others have gone home.

CAMPS IN USE SINCE 1932
The camps, which stretched across Canada, at one time provided food and shelter for 28,000 men. They were first brought into existence in October, 1932, during the Bennett administration, to relieve the situation in municipalities.
Up to June 15, Mr. Rogers stated 8,700 men had been transferred to the deferred construction work. About 650 had been placed on farms.
FIGURES IMPROVE
Meanwhile the general employment figures issued by the Bureau of Statistics continue to show some improvement. On June 1, 9,990 firms reported 47,721 more persons employed than at the corresponding date last year. The total for June 1 last was 963,513.

One Killed In Head-on Smash

F. C. Leigh, Kelowna Teacher, Dies in Accident South of Royal City

Canadian Press
New Westminster, June 29.—One person lost his life, three are in a hospital and four others, including a small boy, are nursing minor injuries suffered in a traffic collision on the Pacific Highway, near Johnstown Road, seven miles south of here Saturday night.
F. C. Leigh, twenty-four, Kelowna school teacher, a passenger in an automobile driven by Edgar Campbell of Kelowna, was instantly killed when the Campbell car collided head-on with another vehicle driven by Angus W. Lutz of Vancouver.
Leigh was thrown through the roof of the auto from the force of the impact. He was on his way home to visit relatives in North Vancouver.
The injured include: Helen Hickson of Vancouver, only passenger with Lutz, head injuries and lacerations. Her condition is "fairly good."
Mrs. Margaret Lawson of Kelowna, passenger with Campbell, fractured leg and lacerations. Condition "fair."
Lutz, fractured arm and lacerations. Condition "fairly good."

FIRST AID GIVEN
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kitley, their small baby and Campbell received minor injuries, and after receiving first aid treatment proceeded to Vancouver.
Police stated that Campbell and his companions were en route to Vancouver, while Lutz and Miss Hickson were driving east in the opposite direction when the accident occurred.
The body was brought here, where an inquest was scheduled.

CROPS BURN IN HOT WINDS

Drenching Downpour Needed to Save United States Midwestern Grain; Cattle Shipped Out

Associated Press
Chicago, June 29.—Midwestern United States farmers scanned the skies today for signs of a crop-saving rain.
Meteorologists predicted showers and cooler weather for many parts of the arid midcontinent, but their forecasts raised no false hopes. Experts contended a "drenching downpour" was needed to stem the protracted drought that has shriveled vegetation, dried streams and spread wide destruction through fields of small grains.
Long waited precipitation was reported yesterday in scattered sections of the Dakotas, Minnesota and Montana, but in most cases it was too

Quits Union

SIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN
London, June 29 (Canadian Press from Havre).—Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Foreign Secretary, resigned Saturday Night from the League of Nations Union. Declaring continuation of sanctions against Italy, as urged by the Union, would be "fatal alike to the peace of Europe and the continued existence of the League of Nations."
"The Scarborough meeting of the council of the League of Nations Union has definitely committed the union to a policy in which I can have no part," Sir Austen advised Prof. Gilbert Murray, president of the Union, in his letter of resignation.

COMMUNISTS IN U.S. NOMINATE

Associated Press
New York, June 29.—The Communist Party, under the leadership of Earl W. Browder, its candidate for the United States presidency, started its election campaign today "to reach 100,000,000 voters" and "flood the country from one end to the other with red literature."
Browder was nominated by acclamation late yesterday. James W. Ford, Harlem negro organizer, was named as his running mate, for the vice-presidency.
Browder described the Republican Party as "the vanguard of fascism" to be stopped "at all costs."
The Roosevelt New Deal he denounced as giving way more and more to "the forces of reaction."

WOMAN DIES FROM BEATING

Chicago Divorcee Bludgeoned in Hotel Room; "Black Legion" Note

Associated Press
Chicago, June 29.—Beaten to death by blows on the head, Florence Castle, twenty-five-year-old divorcee, was found today in her room at a hotel near the gold coast.
Scrawled across the mirror of her dressing room in what detectives said appeared to be either red crayon or lipstick, were the words: "This is the Black Legion."
On a bed near the body the police found two pieces of a paving brick, broken in half and bloodstained, which was used to bludgeon the victim while James, her six-year-old son, looked on.
James ran into the lobby of the hotel in his night clothes and told the desk clerk: "A man with a black mask hit mama."
On a fire escape outside the room the police found Mrs. Castle's purse and hat.
How employees said they believed Mrs. Castle had been employed as a night club hostess. Her son, they told detectives, arrived at the hotel yesterday, and they were informed he had been in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., presumably with relatives.

EIGHT DEATHS IN ACCIDENTS

Five Week-end Fatalities in Saskatchewan; One in British Columbia

Canadian Press

John Solomon, sixty-two-year-old farmer, was killed at Arran, Sask., when he fell from the roof of a community hall he was repairing. BONUS ALL SPENT
Los Angeles, June 29 (Associated Press).—Court Commissioner E. D. Doyle asked Joseph George Scheue, Great War veteran, who received a bonus of $528, if he could pay temporary alimony. Scheue presented receipts showing he had spent the money on a cemetery lot, a casket, paid an undertaker for ultimate service and made arrangements for church rites.

MAGISTRATE'S PAY IS LOW

Bishop Schofield

THE LAMENTED PASSING Yesterday of the Rt. Rev. Charles de V. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, has removed from our ken a figure notable not only in ecclesiastical but also in secular circles throughout Canada. For twenty years he faithfully ministered to a flock covering the wide Diocese of Columbia, frequently traveling to its most remote parishes and keeping in close personal touch with those under his spiritual care. His duties involved journeys that were a severe tax on a frail physique which had been much weakened by illness during the more recent years.

The present magnificent Christ Church Cathedral stands as a monument to the late Bishop Schofield's indomitable spirit, the raising of the necessary funds being made possible largely through his own personal effort. A man of scholarly attainments, great personal charm and magnetism, and overflowing with the milk of human kindness, he manifested his many saintly qualities not only in the manifold and exacting duties entailed in the bishopric, but also in his active interest and unflinching support of the numerous community undertakings designed to ameliorate the lot of those less fortunate.

Thus will citizens of all denominations, in British Columbia and elsewhere in Canada, share with the people of the Anglican Church the deep sense of loss incurred by his death, and The Times tenders its sincere sympathy to his widow and daughters in their bereavement.

"American Reactions"

OUR NEIGHBOR ON THE SOUTH has been given a good deal of what, colloquially, is known as "absent treatment" in the matter of her attitude, what it is or ought to be, toward European affairs. She is told, inferentially, at any rate, that she ought to be a member of the League of Nations, and thus give her weighty support to all movements to promote peace among the countries of the world; that she ought to back up the Kellogg Pact and generally throw in her lot with the Old World in the cause of international amity.

The New York correspondent of "Truth" (London), who was at one time a member of the British House of Commons, has contributed to that well-known candid weekly a lengthy article on "American Reactions." He refers to himself as a loyal subject of Great Britain who has never failed yet to attribute whatever goes wrong in any part of the world to sins of omission, if not of commission, perpetrated by the United States. When, however, "Truth's" correspondent writes, "Eden—Britain's Foreign Secretary—tries to enrol this country (the United States) as the scapegoat for the collapse of pressure by the League of Nations on an aggressive Italy, I must respectfully dissent." He pursues his theme in part as follows:

I do not suggest that England should have closed the Suez Canal. But I do know that such action on her part would have aroused an enthusiasm in the United States from coast to coast like nothing seen in this country in her recent history. There is no shadow of justification for the idea that the United States would have created difficulties. On the contrary, over Abyssinia, as over Manchukuo, enthusiasm with indignation was developing daily, and without any need for propaganda.

Thoughtful persons recognize the tremendous issues involved in this business, and these are the only issues worth considering.

He says he is frank when he declares himself utterly unable to understand sometimes on what information affecting this country the British Foreign Office is relying. "I may fairly claim to be as closely in touch with public opinion over here as any Englishman in the United States, and it is with a full sense of responsibility that I say what now I do say." As he makes this important statement he sets it down plainly that he is stating facts:

There is not the remotest chance of the United States joining any kind of League of Nations. No President dare consider the idea. No Congress would dream of approving it. So far as this present crisis is concerned, British diplomacy will be simply fumbling with a grave situation if it wastes five minutes on such without thinking. It should be dismissed, firmly and finally, from the mind.

"Truth's" correspondent concludes on the note that no war, whether in the Far East or Europe, can endanger the United States. An Old World torn to pieces would leave the New World more secure even than she is today. This, at any rate, is the popular view, and it means that the fear complex, as psychologists call it, which apparently is so powerful in Europe, has little influence in the two Americas. North and South America, he reminds the governments and people on the other side of the Atlantic, are drawing together and may form a League of their own. The idea is less to resist the wild thrusts of an intoxicated Europe than to prevent the growth of a similar militarism in regions that still retain a measure of civic sanity.

Modernizing

SENATOR A. D. McRAE ASKED before the Senate Railway Committee at Ottawa a few days ago whether the Canadian railways were not facing huge investments for modernization in the next few years. Judge Fullerton, retiring C.N.R. chairman, surprised all when he replied: "I cannot see that at all. Some of our stations may not look very well and a few of our trains need a little paint, but we have plenty of engines and track."

The last sentence, doubtless, is only too true. But The Financial Post reminds us that obsolescence is the thief of profits and when executives are not on guard it robs an organization of its earning power. The Post finds Canadian railways have been growing obsolete. Throughout the world, new types of engines, freight cars, passenger trains and other equipment have been devised, even in these depression years. Our railways, probably because of the seriousness of their financial problems, have been slow to accept new ideas and put them into execution.

But now they are wider awake. They are making a drive to recover passenger traffic lost to buses; to meet truck competition in freight; to design and construct new equipment. The Canadian National has its first powerful streamlined locomotive on display; the C.P.R.'s smart modernized passenger train is getting its finishing touches in the shops. These are significant first moves; millions of new expenditure are hardly to be avoided or our railways will be left behind along with the other relics of the buggy.

This Week's Regatta

CADBORO BAY AND THE ROYAL Roads this week will furnish the settings for the fifteenth annual Pacific Coast international regatta, with the Royal Victoria Yacht Club as host. Member clubs besides Victoria include Vancouver, Seattle, Bellingham, Everett, Tacoma, Port Angeles and California. About forty boats are expected and some 300 devotees should furnish keen competition, while the craft themselves will present a gay and interesting scene. Among the events scheduled are two races for sailing vessels which will compete for trophies donated by the late Sir Thomas Lipton; that fine sportsman who did so much and spent so much to maintain the popularity of yachting, both in his native land and in the international realm. At one time this form of sport held more appeal to older people, but now the younger folk have developed a keen enthusiasm and it may be taken for granted that many of the craft taking part in the regatta, particularly the smaller boats, will be manned by the more youthful generation. The visitors may rest assured of a warm welcome from the citizens of Victoria and it is to be hoped the weatherman will be on his best behavior.

Out of Joint

PONDERING THE UNEXPECTED result of the Louie-Schmeling prize fight, The New York Times thinks it odd no telegram of congratulations went from Premier Mussolini to Schmeling's manager. Such a telegram should have said, in substance and derisively, "Hooray for the experts!" Coming from the man whom the experts sentenced to a three-year-war in Ethiopia to the man whom the experts refused to concede more than three rounds against Joe Louis, such a message, it is thought, would have had force.

Although people everywhere are saying the world can be saved only by trained minds taking charge, The Times feels it has not been a good time for the specialists. Bankrupt regimes have gone on squandering long after the financial specialist had them in collapse. Tyrannized peoples have gone on submitting long after the psychological specialist had their patience exhausted. Italian military tanks go scooting forward merrily in Ethiopia in the face of military and meteorological specialists. Aged and burnt-out prizefighters knock out the boxing specialist's perfect fighting machine.

Out of joint are these times for experts. We boast of it as an age of specialization, but they are letting us down badly.

Notes

Even if most crusades do not get anywhere, they at least relieve the feelings.

"A little knowledge is a dangerous thing" was written years ago, so evidently there were psychologists away back in those days.

The complete, composite, grand total public payroll, federal, state, city and local, in United States, is now estimated by the National Civil Service Reform League to have reached 3,000,000. That is almost one in ten of all people gainfully employed. A great part of this total is made up of school teachers, policemen, firemen, letter carriers, and all kinds of workers at the most vital tasks. It is not the number of government employees that is important; it is the usefulness of the work they do, insist all students of government trends.

In one eastern school survey it is found that while "ample time is devoted to Latin, mathematics, English, and other subjects, civics remain the neglected orphan of the state's educational system." Accordingly, it is proposed that more time should be given to the teaching of civics, that students should be given direct contacts with government and politics, that adequately prepared civics teachers be sought, and, finally, that the public must be aroused to require the schools to turn out public-minded students. In these days of the ever-increasing importance of government, this programme is one that might be emulated in all parts of the country.

Loose Ends

Lord Tweedsmuir protests against our method of ordering half-inch pipe—The London Times deals with a silly old masquerade—the robins resent intrusion—and Gerry is alarmed about a squash.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

ENGLISH LANGUAGE

LORD TWEEDSMUIR has raised his voice against the present trend of the English language. The trouble of which the Governor-General complains is not that people are getting careless with the language but that they are trying to inflate it, ornament it, make it fancy.

For example, Lord Tweedsmuir complains that when people want to ask him what he thinks of something they don't ask him what he thinks of it. They ask him his reaction to it. This is the pompous, absurd idiom which threatens to engulf English in America—a kind of flashy, pretentious, newly-rich way of speaking by which prosperous ignoramus flatters themselves that they are cultured, and the urban peasantry prop up their trail, damp ego.

It gives the little man a fine sense of largeness and importance to write business letters in that style. "My reaction to your offer of 1,000 feet of galvanized iron pipe at 10 cents is unfavorable." That makes him feel like Henry Ford ordering a billion tons of steel. It would be much simpler to say he didn't want the pipe, but it wouldn't sound like big business.

"This is to inform you that your proposal has been taken under advisement and our decision in this matter will be conveyed to you at an early date." This means, we'll think about it and let you know, but that, of course, would sound too small.

And we don't meet people any more: not in business, anyway. We "contact" them. They are not acquaintances as they used to be. They have grown into "contacts." This gives them a new air of importance, though they may still be the same old men, hardware men and peanut men that they were before. We don't ask anybody for anything. We "propose" him and from every angle. Yes, there are more angles being thrown about the world today than Euclid ever dreamed of, and most of those who are throwing them wouldn't know Euclid's first proposition. They would probably think, if you asked them, Euclid's first proposition was an offer to buy 1,000 feet of galvanized iron at 10 cents, or something similar.

OLD STYLE

STILL, IN FAIRNESS, I am bound to say that this new pomposity is merely a modernized form of a still more pompous speech which prevailed before. One hundred years ago last week, on June 28, 1836, The London Times, for example, published the following gem which is dressed in so many verbal petticoats that a modern newspaper reader cannot make any sense of it, without reading it through two or three times:

"The writers in the Ministerial press," said The Times, "appear to have found in the recent trial of 'Norton v. Melbourne' abundant material for the dirty trade they carry on. We are very much abused because, concurring in the verdict of the jury, which acquitted Lord Melbourne of the offence charged against him, we have thought proper to censure that part of his conduct which caused him to be suspected. Do we blame the lady in the same degree? Far, very far from it. Indeed, we hardly see how she could have avoided, what we do not see her good taste must have made her feel, a grievous, if not a degrading infliction. Observe her situation. She had applied to Lord Melbourne as a friend of her father for a place for her husband. Lord Melbourne gave her husband the place; and if he demanded as the price of it that Mrs. Norton, a beautiful and clever woman of twenty-seven years of age, should be subjected for twelve hours every day to the twaddling gossip of a vain man of fifty-eight, it would, we think, have been difficult for her to have resisted the payment so exacted for his lordship's services to her husband."

After you have read that over two or three times you may make some sense of it, the general idea being that Lord Melbourne was a silly old masquerade. But the editor said he had a hundred years ago. They had to wrap it up in some elegance as the price of it that Mrs. Norton, a beautiful and clever woman of twenty-seven years of age, should be subjected for twelve hours every day to the twaddling gossip of a vain man of fifty-eight, it would, we think, have been difficult for her to have resisted the payment so exacted for his lordship's services to her husband."

ADVERTISEMENT

TO SAVE THE EXPENSE of paying for a classified advertisement, I am inserting this formal notice here:

"Free board for poor robins. Feed luxuriously on cherries grown with great labor and expense by charitable old man, solely to supply deserving birds. Spend the summer amid ideal surroundings. Plenty of strawberries, raspberries and blackberries. No cats. Scarecrows erected by owner very feeble imitations. Owner also very indifferent at throwing stones. Only occasional interruptions in cherry feeding from little boy and girl next door. Come and enjoy this summer treat before the cherries get thoroughly ripe and the owner tries to steal a few for his own use."

GERRY'S SQUASH

SINCE my young friend, Gerry, gave up his wild ways and settled down in a house and planted a garden, the boys see him no more at poker parties, beer swills and such other harmless amusements of the young. Gerry, as I recorded here before, was happy at first in his newly-found domesticity, but he finds that a respectable quiet life has grave disadvantages, and peculiar responsibilities which fall on the head of a family. "You take my cucumber plants," Gerry said to me today. "They're not growing as they should. There's no sign of a cucumber on them yet. But that's not all. You know, I planted some tomato plants that a fellow gave me. They grew fine, but look what's happened! Have you ever had a banana squash? Well, the same fellow gave me a banana squash plant and it's run wild over everything. I put a stake for it to climb up but you think it won't climb the stake? Not it. It's got to climb on some living thing so it chose the tomatoes. Every day I take it off the tomatoes and every day it climbs right back on them again. Why, in the garden next door there's a banana squash and it's practically killing an apple tree. I tell you, my tomatoes are going to be strangled if somebody doesn't do something pretty quick."

He looked so discouraged that I shall not be surprised to hear that he has gone back to poker and beer swilling. It takes a strong character to dominate an unruly garden at this time of year. Often we have rescued Gerry from beer halls and poker parties, but this is the first time we have had to rescue him from a banana squash.

CAPT. THORPE-DOUBBLE
RESIGNING

To the Editor:—At a meeting of those interested in the progress of amateur theatrical production in Victoria to be called at the Little Theatre Association rooms on Tuesday, June 30, at 8 p.m., it is my intention to offer my resignation as chairman of the Vancouver Island elimination contest committee of the Dominion Drama Festival. It had been my intention to offer my resignation after the next contest at a suitable time, but as this meeting offer an exceptional opportunity for the election of a new chairman, I am anxious to seize it, and coming at this time will cause the minimum of inconvenience to next year's contest.

My only reason for asking you to publish this letter is that persons interested may come to the meeting with the selection of my successor in their minds.

THE DRAMA IN VICTORIA

To the Editor:—A definite step forward has been taken by the decision of the directors and leaders of the various organizations in Victoria interested in dramatic work to make a genuine effort to co-ordinate and co-operate for the improvement of future productions. This is something that should have been done long ago, and that will undoubtedly result not only in better-balanced casts—and this is especially important in Drama Festival competition—but also in curtailment of the number of plays to be given during the year. In the season just over, plays followed each other in too close succession and the generosity of the patrons of the drama was taxed to the limit. It is felt that fewer plays of more general excellence will be welcomed and as it is important that the views of all those interested in dramatic work should be available in framing a definite policy, it is hoped that the meeting that has been called for this purpose at the Victoria Little Theatre Association rooms, Burdett Avenue, on Tuesday, June 30, at 8 o'clock will be well attended.

JACK KING AND DRUGS

To the Editor:—The John Howard Society morally offered their services, through your paper, to assist Jack King.

They and not a private individual should open the petition for the purpose of reducing this lad's sentence. Splendid as their object is, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Our whole empire was shocked by the Italian use of gas in Ethiopia, yet we in our midst allow drugs to be circulated freely, drugs acknowledged by our officials to be the cause of far more serious crimes than Jack King's.

Remove the causes as far as possible, to prevent other lads from following in the same footsteps, and thereby remove the painful (as it must be to our judges) necessity to have to deal out such sentences.

Drugs develop what is in a person, for good or bad; is acted upon without normal restraint and so they become victims of circumstances.

THEIR LAKE ROAD

To the Editor:—It is amazing to think, considering the number of times cars and buses have gone down the recently improved mile of road, that there has been no comment regarding the roughness of this road.

To my mind, the aldermen of this city should go over it in one of their own cars, or sample the bumps one gets in the bus. I should advise the city fathers to have the road to this pleasant little resort smoothed off and oiled; this should have been done in the first place.

From information I gathered, this work was relief work. Therefore, why could not this work have been finished properly? Considering this property has been taken over by the

From Answers, London

Lord Baden-Powell, now in his eightieth year, has one claim to fame which most of his Boy Scouts don't know about. He is the only living Englishman not of Royal blood whose portrait has appeared on a postage stamp. It was during the siege of Mafeking. All the stamps had been used, and no portrait of Queen Victoria was available from which new ones could be prepared. So, without consulting "B.P." an emergency issue was made on which his head had been reproduced.

"NO FLOWERS"

To the Editor:—For many years our city has been noted for its equable climate and among other things for one of the greatest gifts of Nature—flowers. The growing of these wonderful blooms apart from the lumber and fishing activities, has become one of the main industries of Greater Victoria. It directly employs well over 800 persons and indirectly many other trades contribute to its maintenance, thus providing work for hundreds of others. Let me cite a few examples. The glass merchant is needed not only to supply the original glass for greenhouses, etc., but also for the very frequent and necessary repairs and renewals caused by high winds, storms and such-like unforeseen circumstances. The same applies to the lumber and hardware merchants. Our city water department supplies vast quantities of water for irrigation and other gardening requirements each year. The farmer is a useful asset with natural manure, whilst the feed merchants are in the same category with regard to chemical fertilizers and artificial manures so necessary for the propagation and growth of the seedling and plants. Many other trades could be mentioned, but space forbids trespassing on the courtesy of your columns. Suffice it to say that the combined efforts of these artisans have resulted in beautiful blooms, which have helped to make our city famous.

These flowers are used for many everyday purposes. Many of them are used purely for decoration. The sick in hospitals derive great benefit from their cheery presence. They are sent as tokens of love, appreciation for kindnesses shown and, last but not least, they are used as a final token of affection and respect for those dear ones who are called to their eternal rest. Beautiful wreaths, crosses and other floral tributes are made up especially as an expression of these sentiments for those who can afford the expense, while in the case of those with meagre purses simple sprays at a very low cost are used for the same purpose.

I have noticed in recent months with some concern that many of our prominent citizens have passed on, with the request that there shall be "no flowers." No doubt some, to a certain extent, had unselfish thoughts when making this appeal, thinking, perhaps, to save expense to certain friends of slender means. Others may have had the thought of the beautiful blooms dying on the graveside. One thing I feel sure that did not enter their minds, was the fact that in making such a request they were not only depriving people they were leaving behind of a certain amount of livelihood, but they were also depriving a number of their friends of an opportunity of expressing in a beautiful and concrete form their last tribute of affection and respect. What can be purer or more beautiful than that wonderful gift of Nature—flowers?

TRIBUTE TO AN OLD FRIEND

To the Editor:—Major J. A. T. Crompton, who has just passed away so suddenly in Victoria, has left this time-world the poorer for his passing. Over a quarter of a century of unvarying friendship enables the writer to testify to his sterling character, simple, straightforward, and utterly sincere. Entirely without self-consciousness, self-righteousness, or severity, his everyday life preached the vital lesson of government by principle, and whether in home life, outside friendships, or professional relationships, his happy, unwavering devotion to duty, his courage and cheerfulness through sorrow, were salient characteristics.

Another shining quality was his unchanging dependability and thoughtfulness for others, and perhaps one of the most striking signs of his stability of temperament lay in the fact that, while unshakable in his own convictions, he could and eagerly did argue hotly over questions of political, economic, or academic interest, without losing by a breath his innate and inveterate good temper, courtesy, and kindness towards the differing views of others. A vital and versatile personality, of whom those well-known lines come, through the human sense of loss, to the hearts of his friends as essentially descriptive.

"Life is mostly froth and bubble,
Two things stand like stone,
Kindness in another's trouble,
Courage in your own."

"Folly and Farewell"

By MARIE BLIZARD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA BOURNE, twenty, pretty, is left almost penniless by the sudden death of her father.

PETER GARDNER, newspaper reporter, tells her get a job writing society news. Linda is in love with DIX CARTER, but he goes abroad to study singing. When Peter asks Linda to marry him she agrees, but postpones the wedding.

HONEY HARMON, film star, comes to Newton, making a "personal appearance" there and buys a scenario written by Linda. Later Linda goes to Hollywood and expresses ideas that are really Peter's, securing a reputation for being able to discover new stars. Some time she is invited to help him. To please Dix, she invites BASIL THORNE, director, to her home through the dislike and distrust of Peter.

Peter Gardner writes a successful play and comes to Hollywood.

Thorne drives Linda to a mountain resort where the company is to work next day. The others fail to arrive. There is trouble with the car and Linda and Thorne are obliged to stay the night. The story gets about and Linda asks Peter to marry her. He says he will if she will marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Linda couldn't believe she had heard him rightly.

"I'm afraid you'll have to explain exactly what you mean," she said when she could speak.

"I want to marry you, Linda. In my way, I'm in love with you. I'll be good to you. You'll never be sorry you have."

"The impression I got was that you were willing to force me into marrying you because I would be so ashamed to have my name coupled with yours in scandal. That's a very strange way to prove that you'd be good to me."

"You're very blunt, my dear. I didn't mean that, at all. Besides, when you are my wife no one will dare speak ill of you. And what is more, they will soon forget."

"You're a beast!" Linda was choked with anger. "Do you suppose I'll ever forget? I hate you. I loathe the sight of you. It makes me ill to think of anyone mentioning my name in connection with you, but I am in fact of you. I won't appeal to you again, or to your finer instincts. I don't believe you have any but I will leave you to face your own ego and to wonder what people will think of you when I have denied everything you've said. And I can do it with conviction. My reputation in Hollywood is far superior in moral tone to yours, Basil Thorne. Now will you get out, please?"

Linda drove back from Santa Monica at a furious pace. She wasn't afraid, she was angry. Blindly angry and she meant to do something to Basil Thorne. At the peak of her anger she was unable to think and she went out clearly but he would find that he was no match for a woman who could be ruthless too. She couldn't use his weapons because she was bound to the unbreakable principles of her own code but there was something she could do!

When she reached her own home once more, she took an icy shower, hoping to calm her nerves. Then she put on a lace negligee and tore it off to don pyjamas because she couldn't pace the floor with furious freedom. Thinking that what could she do? Until she realized that there was a little that one lone woman could do.

But she wasn't alone. She had Dix who loved her. Dix who was her own kind. Dix who was going to make her his wife. Dix would settle Basil Thorne. Men had ways of accomplishing those things. Linda was sorry for girls who had no men to fight their battles.

That night, dining with Dix, she said, "Darling, I want you to promise me that when I tell you something you won't lose your temper. I want you to be calm."

"You've decided to buy that police pup?" Dix hadn't wanted her to have it.

"Silly!" she laughed. "I wish it did only concern the pup! Well I take that up later. No, it's something much more serious."

"Let me think," Dix looked toward the ceiling. "You've gotten in a jam at the bank again because you won't keep your cheque book straight? You've bought me a necktie you just couldn't resist? You've..."

"I'm sorry, Dix, it's nothing so trivial as all that. It's about Basil Thorne."

"Again?" Dix didn't appear to be very interested. "If he's bothering you, why don't you tell him to leave you alone?"

"It seems that I can't do that. At least I've tried."

"That's the penalty you pay for being so irresistibly beautiful, my pet."

"Do be serious. I'm sick over this and I've simply got to tell you because you've got to help me."

"Spill it, darling. I didn't realize you were really upset. Of course I want to hear about it and if there's anything I can do, I'll do it. Now what is it?"

"I'll have to begin at the beginning. Before you came to Hollywood I met Thorne at a party at Malibu."

"Naturally you met him before I came."

"Yes, I met him, fell a little bit in love with him. No, I wasn't really in love with him but he fascinated me."

"Likeable fellow, Thorne," Dix said. "Linda told me she must have been not quite clear."

"I don't think so," she said, clearly. "I did then, however, and I was foolish enough to accept an invitation to dine with him at his home... alone. It was the worst thing I could possibly have done and I deserved the sort of insult I got."

"What do you mean, Linda?" Dix asked with a threatening calmness. "Oh, nothing very dreadful," she assured him hastily. If Dix were coldly furious at this point of her story, what would he do when she finally reached the important point?

"I'm waiting for you to continue," he reminded her.

Linda sighed. "It was nothing more than time that he was tight, intoxicated, quite drunk and thoroughly dreadful. As soon as I saw his condition I left and caught a ride—nothing less—back to town and could taxi decided then that I would never see him again."

"That wasn't so very dreadful, you baby?"

"It wasn't very nice. Anyway, to make a long story short, I did see him again—because I wanted you to meet him, because you wanted to. That was the only reason I could allow a person of his kind to come back in my life."

And the only reason I got in that dreadful situation permitting him to drive me out to location was because I wanted to help you. That would have been all right but now, Dix, now he wants me to marry him! And he's spreading the story about that I spent the night with him and heaven only knows what what implications!"

"And today when I begged him to deny them, he inferred that he wanted to marry me unless I promised to marry him. You've got to do something!" Linda was crying when she finished. She expected Dix to take her in his arms.

"Be reasonable, Linda," he said at length. "This isn't as serious as it sounds. Thorne's all right and this is Hollywood. You can't blame him for wanting to marry you."

"Dix!" Linda was calling him from the depth of her heart. No, Dix speaking so calmly, so casually! It couldn't be.

"All you have to do is have your lawyer send him a brief note. He got in a jam once before talking too much. After a note like that, you are quite safe."

"Dix," Linda's voice was so low he could hardly hear her or know that whatever would be between them in the future must depend on his answer, "you're quite right but what are you going to do about it?"

"I'm not going to do anything, my darling. I can't. I'm in a spot. Thorne is giving me the juvenile lead in his next picture. You can see my position, can't you?"

"Yes," she answered with deadly calm. "I can see your position. I can see everything about you... so clearly, I'm... I can't talk any more. I want you to go now, Dix."

Pete Gardner, Pete Gardner, his name, his life, the hours of strength and goodness and love he had given her. The last quarrel when he had told her Dix was a weakling, incapable of caring deeply for her, trading on her help, her love. Swaying with sobs for a dead love, she remembered all those things and heard the name that her heart called over and over again.

She had to see Pete Gardner. Pulling a wrap over her negligee, she telephoned for a taxi. Pete had been staying at the Beverly Wilshire. Even if he loved another woman, she had to see him, counting on his comfort.

"Mr. Gardner checked out three weeks ago," the night clerk told her. She thanked him and went out to a bleak and black night remembering that someone had told her Pete had gone east.

Annual Service Well Attended

Nearly 1,700 Persons at Young People's Gathering at Beacon Hill

Approximately 1,700 persons yesterday attended the annual young people's service at Beacon Hill Park, with representatives of various churches taking part.

The feature talks were given by Percy Willis, missionary of the Shantiesmen's Christian Association, and Arthur R. Scarr.

The Salvation Army band accompanied by piano and solo selections were rendered by George Green, cornetist; A. Sadler, vocalist; Miss Ora Jealous and a duet.

Rev. F. W. McKinnon opened the service with prayers and a Bible reading was given by Rev. J. Mackie Niven. Adjutant L. Edie of the Salvation Army pronounced the benediction.

VISITING CITY FROM ENGLAND

In the course of a tour of North America, which so far has taken them through United States and British Columbia, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Michelson, of Sydney, Devonshire, England, arrived in Victoria yesterday and are guests at the Dominion Hotel.

They are accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Bailey and C. C. Orchard of Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Michelson left Devonshire on May 25, crossed the Atlantic on the Aquilana. They were impressed with their U.S. visit and are eagerly anticipating crossing Canada on their return voyage to take the Empress of Britain home.

Mr. Michelson is the solicitor and town clerk of Sydney, and this is his first long holiday in years.

Vancouver Island and its beautiful drives made a great hit with the visitors, who today were planning a visit to Butchart's Gardens and the Astrophysical Observatory.

FIFTY 1886

YEARS and to-day

AGO 1936

Link of Empire. When the *first trans-continental train from Montreal rolled over the new steel path to the Pacific, fifty years ago, it carried the destinies of a nation — of an Empire! For the newly-completed Canadian Pacific Railway not only formed the visible link of the newly confederated Provinces, it opened the way to unbroken world-communications within the Empire — a fact of profound significance in Imperial policy. If a united Empire has stood as the bulwark of civilization in the succeeding years, a vital contribution to that unity was made by the men of faith and courage who planned and built the Canadian Pacific Railway fifty years ago.

The original equipment of the first trans-continental train is being re-conditioned and its arrival at Port Moody is being re-enacted on July 3, in celebration of its own and Vancouver's Golden Jubilee.*

Fairfield W.M.S. — The monthly meeting of the Fairfield United Church W.M.S. was held on Friday afternoon in the Oriental Home, when the members took the opportunity of seeing the practical side of the mission and were shown over the home by Miss Boch, who is on the staff. Mrs. Alfred Dowell led the devotional period, and Mrs. G. G. Green, the president, conducted the business. The guest speaker was Mrs. Edgar Dewar of the English Methodist Mission in Canton, who, with her husband, is returning to the Old Country, after forty years of service in the mission field. VANCOUVER CITY HALL CEREMONY

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 29.—Hon. R. B. Bennett will dedicate Vancouver's new city hall on Thursday, July 2, when Mayor G. G. McGeer lays the cornerstone of the building.
A message received by the city clerk told of Mr. Bennett's acceptance of an invitation to read the dedicatory address.
A silver trowel, costing $40, will be used by Mayor McGeer in the cornerstones laying ceremony.

SAYS CANADA YOUNG NATION

Dr. H. T. J. Coleman Says
Third Dimension Being
Added to Dominion's Life

"If Canada has a soul it is essentially the soul of a young man or a young woman. It is a soul of youth," said Dr. H. T. J. Coleman, of the University of British Columbia, in an address before a luncheon at the Empress Hotel on Saturday, at which the men's and women's Canadian Clubs of Victoria were hosts to delegates from all over Canada who had attended the Associated Canadian Clubs convention in Vancouver the previous day.

To point the moral of his address on "The Spirit of Canada," Dr. Coleman painted the contrast between two statues in Italy; one, in the course of erection now in the Piazza Mussolini in Rome, a 250 feet high memorial to the epigonal dictator at the conclusion of a war which marked the triumph of force over essential right and the attempt to spread civilization with bombing planes and gas; the other Michelangelo's statue of David, which for 500 years has stood before the Cathedral of Florence.

It was this second figure which he commended to Canada: the figure of a young man going out with confidence in his meagre weapons to meet a doubtful future, full of the faith begotten of the past and of the pioneer spirit, and armed with a hope that looked forward.

"It will be many centuries perhaps—many years certainly—before a fully-developed Canadian character will be revealed," said Dr. Coleman. "We are a nation only in embryo, but we are a people, and a people with aspirations and a certain uniqueness."

ADD THIRD DIMENSION
A second dimension had already been added to Canada in the settlement of lands far above the international boundary line, and in the recent spectacular development of the sub-Arctic. Now a third dimension was being added, in the sense of the wonder and the potency of Canada's heritage.

The soul of a nation, said Dr. Coleman, was in its individual members, not in an abstract and separate form as some nationalists preached. It was a soul conditioned by history and environment.

The doctrines of racial superiority, doctrines such as the Aryan passion of Germany, had been proved by anthropological research to be brutal and childish. Heredity existed, but it was made up of many and mixed trends.

"We are all entitled to look on the question of race with the serene impartiality of the mongrel," Dr. Coleman quoted.

In addition to a heredity which was social as well as biological, it was essential to remember responsibilities which were also both social and biological.

MIXED INHERITANCE
"In Canada we have a wide racial inheritance. We should be glad of that fact," said Dr. Coleman.

"In the mixture of races there is a danger of discord, but there is also the possibility of transcending that discord and arriving at a higher and fuller understanding."

"It is to the fusion not only of blood, but of cultures and ideals that we should look forward with confidence."

Mayor David Leeming welcomed the visiting delegates to Victoria, and spoke of the great privilege of membership in the Canadian Club, which gave a personal and intimate contact to its members with the great men of many lands.

Mr. Justice Dymally of Winnipeg, past president of the Associated Canadian Clubs, thanked the mayor for his welcome, and spoke of the interest and the value of the delegation's trip west.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, thanked the speaker.

Colonel H. T. Goodland and Mrs. S. J. Willis, presidents of the men's and women's Canadian Clubs of Victoria, respectively, presided jointly at the luncheon.

Anti-vivisection Group Gets Reports

The work of the Canadian Anti-vivisection Society here is increasing and correspondence is maintained with sympathizers in every part of the world. It was reported at the monthly board meeting when letters were read from the Duchess of Hamilton and Brandon, Capt. G. Coleridge, R.N., and from Holland and Belgium.

A HOUSING PROBLEM SOLVED . . . Before Imperial Oil interests developed the oil fields of Peru there were homes there such as that on the left. Foremost in the development, which involved expenditures of great sums of money put up by thousands of investors, was a program to house the native workers. Its result was that rows of neat dwellings like those on the right sprang up on the desert near the oil fields.

THEN THE PHOTOGRAPHER RAN . . . This picture of a great wave coming aboard an Imperial Oil tankship on the Atlantic Ocean was snapped by one of the crew whose next act was to "snap out of it" into the shelter of a deckhouse.

HE CAN'T GO WRONG . . . Clear, reliable road maps and courteous, helpful road and tourist information are only two of the extra services gladly given at Imperial Oil stations. . . . With Imperial touring information and Imperial gasolines and motor oils, you just can't go wrong. Drop a line to Imperial Touring Service, 92 King St. East, Toronto, for free road maps marked with the best route for that motor trip you are planning.

HIS BALANCE IS SATISFACTORY . . . Even a professional movie daredevil would shudder at the performance of this British Columbia "high rigger" standing on the top of the tree to your right. He has just lopped off all the branches and the top of the tree. Next he will fasten to it great cables and chains so that it will support an aerial railway by which enormous logs will be carried on rigging driven and lubricated by Imperial Oil products.

GASOLINE GOES UP . . . A Canadian Airways crew loading barrels of Imperial gasoline into an aeroplane for delivery to depots in the far North. The aeroplane and dependable supplies of Imperial gasolines and oils have played a big part in the recent development of the North.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

AMONG THEM, the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs, and Pittsburgh Pirates should keep the National League end of the 1936 world baseball series in the west.

With the Detroit Tigers hanging in there and the Cleveland Indians again a disappointment, an eastern array, either the New York Yankees or the Boston Red Sox, appears destined to represent the American League for the first time since the Washington Senators crashed through in 1933. It was an all-eastern fashion show, Charlie, with the New York Giants carrying the senior loop banner.

As Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Phillies, points out, the 'Cubs' are chesty again, and everyone knows how they carried that confidence all the way to a winning streak of twenty-one straight and the championship last September.

Pitching is worrying the Cardinals, whose eastern trip did not start too auspiciously in Boston, after they compiled a record of fifteen victories in twenty-three starts at home. Paul Dean is nursing an ailing arm.

Leo Durocher has been bothered with an injured thumb and a badly swollen finger on his throwing hand, which, of course, has been trying to carry on, but he is far from a Durocher in the field, due to his inability to get around with the nimbleness of the Red Bird captain.

The Cardinals expect Johnny Mize to turn into a home-run king in right field.

"Mize may become the successor to Babe Ruth," says old Joe Haines, who points out that the big Georgian has the perfect stance, stride, and swing to become a great home-run hitter.

The trouble with Mize in right field, however, is that he is a defensive menace there. He turns singles into extra-base hits for the opposition, and it is doubtful if even the Cardinals, with their rugged, washbuckling style of play, are good enough to carry a right fielder who makes so many mistakes and only now and then helps his own cause by lifting the ball over the fence.

Writing on the Schmeling-Louis fight, Harry Grayson, well-known eastern sports scribe, says:

"Never go overboard on a fighter until you see how he behaves when his knees buckle or are dipped in the resin. That has been a fine axiom since Jack Broughton wrote the first set of rules. Old-timers insisted upon Jack Dempsey meeting that final test. It was not until after Gunboat Smith nearly sank him in San Francisco in 1918 that the late Spider Kelly predicted that the Manassas Mauler would win the championship. "But even veterans with tired old eyes waived the rule in their admiration of Louis, the picture boxer. That's what Smokey Joe was all along—a picture fighter. The young negro was an automaton—the puppet of the ancient Jack Blackburn, who, like all the rest, became so wrapped up in his charge that he didn't consider it necessary to show him what to do when he was on the floor."

"Against Schmeling, Louis, for the first time was in there with a fighter capable of setting the last remaining question in regard to the erstwhile Brown Bomber, 'Can he take it?' The answer was yes, but that he didn't like it. I can't recall a fighter touted to the extent that Louis was who went to pieces so completely when hit."

Schmeling wasn't afraid. Louis hit him and nothing happened. That was a new kind of a game to the young negro. Schmeling hit Louis and hurt him. That also was a new kind of a game to the colored clown."

"Methodical Max" marched front and centre with a fixed plan of battle and never varied. He bent his body a bit and pulled down a bit to the right and kept moving. Louis said that Schmeling fought sideways and that he found him difficult to fight."

"Schmeling took much of the wind out of Louis's sails right under the gun in the opening canto when he planted a right hand that packed plenty of authority on the Alabama-born dandy's forehead. It was significant that Louis only reached out with his right in retaliation, although nothing was thought of it at the time."

Gain Last Four By Winning In Straight Sets

Perry Much Too Good For Grant; Austin Turns Back Wilmer Allison

NO UPSETS IN WOMEN'S PLAY

Wimbledon, June 29.—Fred Perry, bidding for his third straight title; Don Budge, California redhead; "Bunny" Austin, British Davis Cup star, and Baron Gottfried von Cramm, Germany, qualified today for the semi-finals of the all-England singles tennis championships at Wimbledon.

In the semi-finals Perry will meet Budge and Austin will tackle Von Cramm, conqueror of Perry in the recent French hard court final. Budge defeated Adrian Quist, champion of Australia, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4, repeating his victory in the Australia-United States Davis Cup matches, while Perry trounced Bryan "Bitty" Grant, Atlanta, Ga., 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. The Englishman, number one world player, was too powerful for Grant, who was plainly outclassed.

Austin turned back Wilmer Allison, United States champion, in straight sets 6-1, 6-4, 7-5, while Von Cramm made short work of Jack Crawford, Australian veteran, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

Budge was not extended in breaking Quist's service in the first and seventh games to take the opening set. Quist spilled heavily on the wet turf and twice injured his racket hand.

Quist beats himself. With Quist beating himself by over-driving on critical points, the American also captured the second set 6-4 and led two sets to none.

Budge won the third set 6-4 and the match 6-2, 6-4, 6-1. Perry won the first set 6-1, 6-4, 6-1. After losing the first three games Grant squared matters at three all but Perry attacked the net vigorously and took the opening set.

Perry also won the second set 6-3 and led two sets to none. Perry has too many guns and gave the game, but outclassed little American, little chance to exploit his famous retrieving. The Briton went to the net frequently and scored placements almost as he pleased.

Perry won the third set 6-1, and the match 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. Austin won the first set 6-1, 6-4, 6-1. With the score deadlocked at two all in the second set, the Allison-Austin match was interrupted by a heavy downpour, of rain which drenched thousands of standing spectators.

Austin won the second set 6-4, after an interruption by rain, and then went on to take the third set 7-5, and the match 6-1, 6-4, 7-5. Von Cramm won the first set 6-1 from Crawford. The brilliant baron at times made Crawford look like a novice with the sparkling command of his strokes. Von Cramm also regained control of his shots and kept Von Cramm away from the net.

At vital points while he built up a 5-3 lead. But his rally subsided at that point and Von Cramm once again took charge of the situation. Von Cramm won the third set 6-4, and the match 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

Mme. Simone Mathieu, France, defeated Ruth Mary Hardwick, Great Britain, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5. Budge and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Payban, Brookline, Mass., advanced to the fourth round in mixed doubles, defeating C. R. Aucus and Margot Lumb, Great Britain, 6-3, 6-1.

Hilda Krawinkel Sperling, Germany, and Denmark, and Dorothy Round, Great Britain, winner of the women's title two years ago, gained the quarter-final round. Frau Sperling defeated Nelly Adamson, Belgium, 6-1, 6-0, while Mrs. Round defeated Miss Whitmarsh, Great Britain, 6-4, 6-2.

MAKO WITHDRAWALS. Gene Mako, Los Angeles, who with Donald Budge had reached the third round in the doubles, was forced to withdraw owing to a shoulder injury.

Jadwiga Jedrejowska, Poland, moved into the quarter-final women's round with a 6-1, 4-6, 6-2 triumph over Susan Noel, England.

Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, England, and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, France, defeated Winifred Sargent and Mary Parr, England, 6-2, 6-1, in a fourth round doubles match. Kiki Stammers, left-handed British star, and Fraulein Marie Louise Horn, Germany, also gained brackets in the women's quarter-finals. Miss Stammers conquered her doubles partner, Freda James, 7-5, 6-2, and Fraulein

SOCCER TEAMS IN CUP WINS

North Shore Johnstons Reach Semi-finals in Dominion Cup Series

Vancouver, June 29.—North Shore United and Johnstons went into the semi-finals of the Dominion Cup finals, British Columbia section here Saturday. North Shore defeating Vancouver Liberals 5 to 1, and Johnstons winning 2 to 1 from St. Andrews.

Johnstons had a easy time in the first half of the double bill, while the Liberals walked through their trials, scoring four of their goals in the first period, then coasting through the rest of the game.

Littrot scored both goals for Johnstons in the first period while his teammates held the Saints scoreless, but after the interval St. Andrews rallied.

Johnstons missed an almost sure counter above five minutes after the restart and half-way through the period tallied St. Andrews' lone point on a cross from Brown.

Ten minutes after the start of the second game, McManus scored for North Shore on a pass from Ashton. Ten minutes after Ashton added another with a header from Campbell.

GETS SECOND GOAL. McManus scored his second goal when he pushed the ball into the net during a scramble at the goalmouth, and added his third on a pass from Spencer to give his team a 4 to 0 lead at half-time.

After the interval, the North Shore team took things easy and seemed to put forward no effort to score. Andy Waugh dropped in a long shot for the Liberals, but Camp again put his team four-up, when he scored from twenty-five yards out. Horton, in the Liberals goal, stopped the ball but the force of the drive toppled him back into the net.

North shore and Nanaimo City will meet here on July 1 in one bracket of the semi-finals, and Johnstons and New Westminster Royals will play the other bracket next Saturday.

Mrs. M. Tildesley and E. T. Simmons won the singles championships of the Armada Tennis Club Saturday. A stiff battle by Nancy Peterson, a keen battle to gain the decision by scores of 9-7 and 6-4, while Simmons went four sets before downing Jack Fraser, 2-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-2. Other results follow:

Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif., and Mrs. Sarah P. Payban, Brookline, Mass., advanced to the fourth round of the women's doubles at the expense of Rollin Couquerque and G. Terwinot, Holland. The Americans won 6-2, 6-3.

SOCRATES

WAS FOUND GUILTY BY A JURY COMPOSED OF 501 MEN. ANCIENT ATHENIAN TRIALS OFTEN HAD 2500 JURYMEN!

IT IS COLDEST WHILE THE SUN IS SHINING!

TRIAL BY JURY. Strange as it seems, juries of ancient Athens were sometimes composed of as many as 2,500 jurymen in a single trial, though an ordinary case usually called for a mere 201 jurymen.

The jury list from which the panel was drawn consisted of 6,000 or more names.

Socrates, the immortal Greek philosopher, was tried before a jury of 501 on the following charges: "Socrates is guilty of crime, first, for not worshipping the gods the city worships, and for introducing new divinities of his own; next for corrupting the youth. The penalty due is death." A majority of only sixty jurymen found him guilty. . . . It sent him to his death . . . self-executed by the traditional draining of the hemlock cup.

SUNSHINE COLD. Mid-afternoon is usually the warmest time of day. The reason for this, according to L. H. Dainoffield of the U.S. Weather Bureau, is the fact that the temperature will rise until the amount of the heat received through the radiation of the sun exactly balances the amount of earth's heat lost through radiation out into space.

The coolest time of the day usually is shortly after sunrise. This is explained through the fact that the temperature will fall until the amount of radiated heat received from the sun shortly after sunrise exactly balances the amount of heat lost through radiation from the earth into space.

Tomorrow: The watch cat.

SCULLERS TO LEAVE SOON

Hamilton Leander Eight and Chuck Campbell, Canada's Olympic Representatives

Port Dalhousie, Ont., June 29.—By fifteen inches or so in 1928 at Amsterdam, by less than the length of a boat in 1932 at Long Beach, Calif., Canadian eight-oared crews have failed to win Olympic Games championships.

The margins have been just close enough to hurt—and to make the rowing people hope.

So today a 1936 hope, built at Hamilton by Bob Hunter around the nearly-victorious Long Beach outfit, started packing its bags today for the trip to Berlin and a return engagement with the world's strongest eight.

"We might win," said Hunter, "and anyway we've got a chance." The Leander crew and Charles (Chuck) Campbell, Toronto, Don, were the only Olympic prospects to emerge from Saturday's Canadian trials over the old Welland Canal course here. They were named to represent Canada by the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

In defeating a Toronto Argonaut eight by something like fifteen lengths, the big Hamilton crew covered the Olympic distance of 2,000 metres in 8 minutes 33.4 seconds, never attempting to threaten their own record of 5:49.3 made at the 1932 trials over the same waters. They built up a lead of three lengths in the first quarter and increased it steadily.

Campbell, trouncing Herb Miller, Argos, by five lengths and Jimmy Phillips of the same club by eleven lengths, was timed in 7:54. The twenty-three-year-old Toronto boy, winner of the United States and Canadian singles sculling titles in 1935, had an easy time of it.

Leaders will sail from Montreal July 3 and train for a month over the Olympic course. A new boat built in England, will be delivered on their arrival in Germany.

London, June 29.—After three inspections of umpires and team captains before lunch, play in the test cricket match between England and India was postponed today. A heavy rain fell early this morning and the umpires felt the pitch at Lord's was unfit.

CLEAN BOUT STEALS SHOW

Pat Fraley and Leo Numa Treat Wrestling Fans to Fine Exhibition

Stealing the show when they staged one of the cleanest and most scientific wrestling matches local mat fans have seen for some time, Pat Fraley, who hails from Omaha and Leo Numa, Seattle, husky specimens of the bone-bending art, fought to a one-fall draw in the semi-main tilt on Saturday evening's gym-bout card at the Ellicum forum.

The pair, wrestling like champions, were a treat for the referee to govern after what he had previously gone through. They broke simultaneously at his command and their clean, but painful holds captured the hearts of a packed house of mat fans. Fraley got the opening fall in the second session with a leg lock, while Numa evening matters in the next round with a wristlock.

Louis Newman today is being classed as "another local boy who made good." He won from Pat Maloney, rugged grappler from Boston, on a foul in the third round of the main event. Maloney elected to use "dirty" tactics so Newman conformed to the same methods and at times his heavy fists made the easterner look rather sick. Maloney who is an ex-boxer got the opening fall in the first round when he dazed his opponent with punches and then pressed him to the canvas.

Newman squared up in the next round. He downed Maloney with flying fists and pressed him. An unwarranted and deliberate foul punch in the next session by Maloney gave Newman the bout.

Johnny Pears, referee, took more punishment in the opening bout on the card than the two performing wrestlers. "Wee Willie" Davis, Norfolk, Virginia matman, and Chief Chivaki, gypsy wrestler, Chivaki won a foul.

Davis took exception to the attitude of referee Pears during the match and laid him out twice with kicks and fists. The fans crowded around the ring and caused a near-riot. In the excitement, Promoter Fred Richardson jumped into the ring and took on the giant from Norfolk. He lasted one minute and was then carried out.

"Wee Willie" went on strike following the referee's decision and refused to leave the ring for some time. Chief of Police Thomas Heatley persuaded him to leave finally. Today Johnny Pears has three front teeth loose and is nursing many bruises and a very sore leg. He was packed out of the ring twice and was restrained by spectators from going back in the ring while Davis was there.

"King Kong" Cox, Lodi, California, great and Jerry Monahan, Toronto, fought to a one-fall draw. It was a wild match with the tactics unclear. The opening "battle-royal" saw all the wrestlers head for the topnotchers, who went out first and had to appear in the preliminary bouts.

The match was squared again as Marian took the twenty-eighth and, after the next three holes had been halved, she went 1 up with a birdie four on the thirty-second hole.

She didn't have the lead long, however. The Sellers' girl took the next hole to square the match again and they halved the thirty-fourth in five.

On the green with her drive, Miss McDougall two-putted for a par three to take the hole as Florence missed her second shot but her opponent, who went 1 up, again on the twenty-seventh.

Seattle Walker Cup Player Defeats Jim Robertson, Vancouver, 8 and 7 in Final; Marian McDougall, Portland, Is Women's Titleholder

Vancouver, June 29.—The prize golfing mantle of the Pacific Northwest, the P.N.W.A.—title today rested on the capable shoulders of Harry Givan.

The heaviest young Seattle divot came into the title picture, which he missed last year by a badly-stroked putt in an extra-hole match with his fellow townsman, Scotty Campbell, when he blasted out an 8 to 7 win over youthful Jimmy Robertson, Vancouver, in the scheduled thirty-six-hole final, Saturday.

Givan, tagging behind Robertson most of the first nine over Point Grey's meadowy course, started his victory march with a birdie parade on the incoming nine. He reached the halfway mark 2 up, then slapped par again on the second eighteen while the young British Columbia millworker was having trouble a more experienced player might have avoided.

The contest ended with a graceful gesture by Robertson on the twenty-ninth green. Seven down Jimmy put his tee shot some twenty feet from the "cup" on the short hole. Givan, a few feet further away, was wide with his putt and needed to sink a six-footer for a par three. Robertson likewise missed his first putt, but instead of attempting to sink his three-footer and taking a chance Givan would miss his, picked up both balls and shook hands with the Seattle star, conceding the match.

Robertson rounded the first nine with a one-hole lead, the result of a birdie three on the eighth. Both had 36's two over par figures.

On the incoming nine, Givan rattled off three birdies for a 34, 12 under, and a two-hole lead. His eighteen-hole medal card was one over even figures with 72.

Robertson added another 38 for 76. On the afternoon round Givan clipped off three pars to double his lead, another birdie added the twenty-second and at 11 he halved the next three holes, two more pars put the Walker Cup player 7 up.

Robertson went 8 down when he found a bunker on the twenty-eighth, and needed a 5 to Givan's par 3, and conceded on the green.

Vancouver, June 29.—The women's Pacific Northwest amateur golf crown today adorned the head of twenty-two-year-old Marian McDougall, Portland, for the second time in two years as a result of her 1 up victory over Florence Sellers, twenty-four-year-old Portlander, over thirty-four holes at the Point Grey Club on Saturday.

It might easily have been a different story, except for two stymies at the start of the afternoon round—two stymies which later proved to be one of the deciding factors of the see-saw battle.

With Marian 2 down as they teed off on the nineteenth for the afternoon round, she laid the Sellers girl dead stymies on the nineteenth and twentieth greens. Miss Sellers lost the nineteenth through that and the stymie on the twentieth forced her to have the hole with Marian in five.

Marian was only 1 down as they went to the twenty-first hole, but the game little Sellers girl won that and the twenty-second, the latter with a birdie 4, to go 3 up.

The McDougall girl came back to take the next two holes. The twenty-fifth was halved in four, one over par figures, and then Marian squared the match for the first time in the afternoon round as she took the twenty-sixth; but her opponent, who went 1 up, again on the twenty-seventh.

The match was squared again as Marian took the twenty-eighth and, after the next three holes had been halved, she went 1 up with a birdie four on the thirty-second hole.

She didn't have the lead long, however. The Sellers' girl took the next hole to square the match again and they halved the thirty-fourth in five.

On the green with her drive, Miss McDougall two-putted for a par three to take the hole as Florence missed her second shot but her opponent, who went 1 up, again on the twenty-seventh.

Chicago Cubs Forge Into Leadership Of National League

Champions Beat New York Twice To Hurdle Cards

Shutout Giants 3 to 0 and 6 to 0; Brooklyn Knocks Over St. Louis

NEW YORK YANKS SPLIT TWIN BILL

Well, the boys from Chicago have gone and done it. One month and four days after signing up the extra starting pitcher they needed, the Cubs are back on top of the National Baseball League heap, after a drive that came close to paralleling the skyrocketing spurt with which they wound up with the pennant a year ago.

The laugh they handed the experts who said the boys from St. Louis was the only outfit in the race drew a lot of echoes today, for the Cardinals were knocked out of first place by the one outfit who never expect to turn the torch—the Brooklyn Dodgers.

While Larry French and Bill Lee were shutting out the New York Giants on behalf of the Cubs yesterday, 3 to 0 and 6 to 0, Casey Stengel's boys landed on Dizzy Dean like a ton of bricks, batted him all over the lot, and turned in a 6 to 1 victory that slid the Cards right out of the lead.

The Pittsburgh Pirates with Cy Blanton turning in a four-hit trick, betted the Boston Bees in the opener of a twin bill, 11 to 2, and held onto third position, despite a 6 to 4 trimming in the nightcap. The Cincinnati Reds, idle because of rain in Philadelphia, were only a game back of the Giants, in fifth place.

In the American League, the New York Yankees' home-run batting was more-or-less stilled for a day, and the lowly St. Louis Browns split a doubleheader by doing some long range clouting of their own to win the opener 6 to 3, after which "Murderer" Roy" took the nightcap 7 to 4. The Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians kept on in their third-place deadlock, the former shelling the Philadelphia Athletics 10 to 4 for their fourth straight victory, while the tribe was turning the trick again on the Boston Red Sox, 11 to 3, despite Jimmy Fox's twenty-second homer.

The Washington Senators sank out of the hitherto three-way third place tie by getting no better than a split with the Chicago White Sox, dropping the nightcap 4 to 1 before Sugar Cain's four-hit pitching, after clouting out a 12 to 9 edge in the opener.

A new league leader, dizzy score keepers and tired pitchers were left in the wake of a week-end Coast League ball games, many of them reminders of Olympic Games track trials.

After a fruitful week against San Francisco's Seals, Seattle reposed in first place, while the Missions, leaders last Thursday, were faced with a fight to stay in fourth place. Batters went on a two-day spree and cuffed pitchers unmercifully, with Oakland's 27 to 6 victory Saturday over the Reds the highlight. The Oaks got thirty hits Saturday, while over the league the total was 103.

In doubleheaders yesterday, there were a few low-score games, but batters managed to pile out 162 hits. In spite of Oakland's unusual feat of finding Mission pitchers for 108 hits during the series, Manager Bill Meyer's men had to relinquish the league lead to Seattle, who lost only two games all week.

The Indians took two, from the Seals yesterday, 6 to 2, 7 to 3. Oakland split with the Reds, copping the first game, 10 to 3, and losing the seven-inning finale, 8 to 4. Los Angeles and Portland divided, the Beavers winning the opener, 4 to 3, and dropping the nightcap, 6 to 1. San Diego took the first game against Sacramento, 14 to 7, but the Solons won the second 4 to 3, in eight innings.

CHURCHMEN IN CRICKET WIN

Five C's Defeat Albions To Get Into First Place Tie in Local League

Four clubs were bracketed at the top of the Victoria and District Cricket Association League standings today as the result of the fifty-run victory scored by Five C's over the Albions at Beacon Hill Park on Saturday. As the churchmen defeated their opponents 116 to 66, Victoria gained a draw with Cowichan up-island and Incogs defeated Victoria B in a friendly game at Macdonald Park.

Good bowling by Eric Quinton, Jack Payne and P. C. Payne paved the way to victory for the Five C's, while in the batting lists Yoxall, with thirty-four, was outstanding.

PLAY TO DRAW
Cowichan piled up a total of 149 for six wickets before Victoria went in to score 90 for nine in the match at Duncan. Lack of time prevented the fixture from being completed.

Fox was high batsman for the Cowichan team.
Victoria B declared with 131 for eight in the friendly fixture, but Incogs pined their total by eight runs for nine wickets and gained the victory.

Who's Who At Hotels

F. Dorey, St. Paul, Minn., general counsel of the Great Northern Railway, has been spending the weekend at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Do-rey was this morning conferring with Harry E. Douglas, agent of the line in Victoria.

The illuminated crescent which hangs over the main entrance to the Empress Hotel is the emblem of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority, in convention here. It has no connection with the visit of delegates to the shrine convention in Seattle, which will not take place until the middle of next month, hotel officials explained this morning.

With some 370 Gamma Phi Beta members registered at the Empress Hotel, the pitch of the general conversation in the hotel lobby, which is generally in the line of business men discussing stock trends and golf scores, has risen into the realm of registration. The change is especially noticeable after last week's Canadian Medical Association convention, when the public rooms of the hotel were filled with a milling crowd of males.

Californians still continue to register at the Empress Hotel in a steady flow. Yesterday evening and this morning's arrivals included Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nightingale and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Taylor, Los Angeles;
Mr. and Mrs. G. Nilsson and their son,
Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Kauffman

Fish Men Seek Early Closing Retail fish merchants in the city, following the lead of the meat dealers, have applied for early closing hours to dinner trade, according to a petition filed with the city clerk for the City Council's consideration this evening.

The document is stated to have been signed by 100 per cent of the retail fish dealers and will necessitate the passage of a city by-law to make the change.
The stores ask 5.30 o'clock be the closing hours on week-days other than Saturday and Wednesday. On Wednesday they wish to close at 1 o'clock, to conform with the half-holiday by-law, and on Saturday evening they wish to remain open until 6 o'clock.

Club sending the largest. Seattle will be next best represented, and there will also be boats from all other yacht clubs of the Pacific Northwest, as well as from Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Cadboro Bay presented a gay scene
this afternoon, with score of yachts at anchor and yachtsmen and their ladies in blue and white, coming in and out of the harbor. The yachts were of all sizes, ranging from the palatial cruisers of millionsaires to the sporting sailing dinghies, flannels and stars of the younger set. Some very fine sailing schooners are also here for their races.

Lieut.-Governor Eric W. Hamber has his Venetian at Cadboro Bay, as well as his R. class Lady Van, which will take part in the Lipton Cup classic.

Capt. James Griffiths of Seattle will arrive late this afternoon aboard his Sueda II.

In the harbor this morning was the big cruiser Portola of Los Angeles, while due later today or tomorrow morning is the ninety-foot cruiser K'hang, owned by Alia V.
Call of Los Angeles. This craft will be here for regatta week, and will then sail for Alaska.

Roy Corbett of Seattle arrived during the morning in his new motor sailer Alice. She is a fifty-four footer. Another new boat at the bay is Invader of Vancouver, owned by J. B. Holar. She is seventy feet.

The Enterprise Wharf moorings
in the Inner Harbor are the Sway, a thirty-eight foot ketch owned by Edmond Hayes, lumber merchant of Portland, and Four Winds, a thirty-two foot ketch, owned by Dr. H. A.
Walters of Everett.

Waters for the regatta are Keewaywin, a fifty-five footer owned by Frank S. Baker, publisher of The Tacoma Tribune, and Phantom, seventy-five foot craft owned by Dr.
Wallace Haworth of Portland.
Vancouver boats entered in various events: "Jag" of Commander B. L. Johnson, commander of the Royal Vancouver
Yacht Club; Crested, D. P. Urby;
Armidia, T. M. Ramsey; Nelmor, Alex
Marshall; Lady Pat, D. Matland;
Roma, G. F. Giles; Spirit II, Stuart;

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the first event of regatta week will get under way. From then until Saturday white wings will be in evidence off the Victoria waterfront and at Cadboro Bay. Tomorrow school-ers, ketches and yachts will race from Victoria to Port Angeles and return for the Sir Thomas Lipton Perpetual Trophy, and cruising sloops will race for the Pacific Northwest Perpetual Trophy. If weather conditions are favorable the yachts are expected to be back off Victoria by dark.

BOB DAVIS TO VISIT IN JULY

Bob Davis, columnist for The New York Sun, will visit Victoria some time next month, according to a personal postcard received today by Mayor David Leeming.

The card, mailed in Japan, depicted fishing operations with cormorants, and the message stated Mr.
and Mrs. Davis "hope to be in your incomparable land some time towards the end of July and hope to do some fishing where cormorants are not necessary."

OFFICIALS TO SURVEY GROVE

A step forward in the fight to save Cathedral Grove, the beautiful timber stand on Cameron Lake, Vancouver Island, from being cut by loggers, has been made by Hon. A. Wells
Gray, Minister of Lands.

On his return from eastern Canada today, Mr. Gray said he had made an arrangement with D. C.
Coleman, vice-president of the C.P.R., under which the railway company would provide the government with representatives to work together on a report of the whole project. This will be done shortly.
Mr. Gray explained that since neither the government nor the railway company owns the timber, this step was necessary to bring the matter to the attention of the public, and it was thought it might form the basis for an agreement under which the grove could be saved.

Meanwhile Mr. Gray has an understanding with the owners of the timber that the government will be informed if and when they intend to cut the timber.

UNITY MEANS WORK BY ALL

Confederation Is Pumping
Water Up Hill, Says Mr.
Justice A. K. Dysart

"The whole principle of Confederation is pumping water up hill. It takes effort. Different parts of Canada have very different interests, and to hold together we must all pay the price.
That does not mean just the other fellow, but everyone," said Mr. Justice A. K. Dysart, Winnipeg, in an interview at the Empress Hotel this morning.

Mr. Justice Dysart, who is past president of the Associated Canadian Clubs, has been spending several days in Victoria after attending the annual meeting of the organization in Vancouver on Friday.

"In some ways the plains might be an ocean, separating east and west," he said, and added: "It would perhaps be better if they were. They would be easier to get across—and cheaper."

However, he saw a great future for the prairies. If they were properly organized and given a chance they could be an enormous field for population, he believed.

CANADIAN UNITY
Mr. Justice Dysart spoke of the work of the Canadian Clubs in maintaining Canadian unity.

"The association is the help of the strong for the weak. The bigger clubs supply a lot of money outside of fees altogether to help the smaller communities," he said.

Speaking of the privilege of Canadian citizenship, he told of the manner in which its meaning was brought home in Winnipeg to foreign-born residents who applied for that privilege. The city waited until some 100 or 200 applicants could be assembled, and then the citizenship was conferred at a public ceremony attended by city and provincial officials.

Mr. Justice Dysart would give no definite opinion on the question of the Oriental vote in British Columbia, saying only: "Once these people are born here they are British subjects. It must be apparent to you from a Canadian point of view that the Dominion has the right to give them the franchise if it wants to. It is purely a matter of government policy."

On the subject of immigration he said: "We have tried several experiments, not always successful. The best kind of immigration is the kind prompted by individual necessity.
Forced and subsidized immigration rarely works satisfactorily." He added that in the last experiment on the latter plan 95 per cent of the immigrants had eventually gone back to their native land, and the remaining 5 per cent had stayed and complained.

Of the talk sometimes heard of eventual union between Canada and the United States he commented:
"As soon as we get troublesome times people start looking around and doing a lot of talking."

Mr. Justice Dysart planned to leave for Winnipeg this afternoon.

West Coast Park Interests Ottawa

Negotiations Between Governments Opened on B.C.
Areas; Future Policy to Be Decided

After a month of negotiation on park matters, municipal and land affairs, Hon. A. Wells Gray, B.C. Minister of Lands and Municipal Affairs, returned to Victoria today from Ottawa.

The prime purpose of Mr. Gray's visit east was to discuss with Hon.
T. A. Crerar, Minister of the Interior, the federal government's future policy on parks in British Columbia, which parks it would take over and develop as national parks, and on what terms.
"Ottawa is much interested in the projected West Coast Park on Vancouver Island and in Mount Robson Park," Mr. Gray said today.

The minister said he had asked for a definite decision on the subject but as there was no appropriation made in the federal budget this year nothing could be done immediately.
However, during the year the subject will be gone into and he expected legislation might be introduced at Ottawa next session.

British Columbia also has Garibaldi
Park and a park in the Kootenays.
Mr. Gray presented a comprehensive brief covering the entire park situation in B.C., with full descriptions and potentialities of the different areas.

The minister obtained from Ottawa several forest protection stations in the railway belt. These were not turned over when the railway lands were handed over to the province some years ago. They will be used by the B.C. forest service this year, Mr. Gray said.

Managers Grimm and McCarthy Name Players For All-star Game July 7

New York, June 29.—Charley Grimm, Chicago Cubs and Joe McCarthy, New York Yankees, who will manage the National and American League all-star teams in their annual inter-league battle at Boston July 7, today announced their selections of players to complete their squads.

According to the method of selection adopted this year, the fans picked sixteen players for each team by their votes in newspaper rolls while the managers were allowed to name five additional players to round out twenty-one-man squads.

Grimm selected two of his own players, Curt Davis, the pitcher extensively acquired from the Phillies, and outfielder Augie Galan; two St. Louis Cardinals, Jim Collins, who probably will start at first base since the fans' choice, Bill Terry, has withdrawn from the squad because of his ailing legs, and shortstop Leo Durocher, and Lew Riggs, young Cincinnati third sacker.

McCarthy's choices were pitchers Tommy Bridges of Detroit Tigers, and Mel Harder of Cleveland Indians; Rick Ferrell, Boston's dependable backstop who may do most of the catching since Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers, originally nominated as catcher as well as manager, was forced out by illness; Leon Goslin, veteran Tiger fielder, and Frank Crosetti, New York Yankee shortstop.

At Columbia

Errol Flynn, as he appears in "Captain Blood," is now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

CAPITOL THEATRE

The star of the immortal "Seventh Heaven," Janet Gaynor, and the sensation of "Magnificent Obsession," Robert Taylor, have joined hands to bring to the screen one of the most stirring modern romances in their latest picture, "Small Town Girl," now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Miss Gaynor was never more lovely in her successful career than she is in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production. For the first time, she is allowed to dress up—and in this she reveals a new Janet Gaynor.

With the sensation of the screen season, the lashing Robert Taylor, as her co-star, a perfect screen team is formed.

Francis Lederer Plays Leading Role in "One Rainy Afternoon"

The handsome and popular Francis Lederer sings for the first time on the screen in "One Rainy Afternoon," the gay Parisian romantic comedy which marks the initial offering of the new Pickford-Lasky Productions and opened a three-day engagement at the Atlas Theatre today.

Idol Lupino is cast opposite the star and Hugh Herbert, Roland Young, Erik Rhodes and Joseph Cawthorn head the supporting cast.

The screen play by Stephen Morehouse Avery centres around Philippe Martin-Lederer, of course—a struggling young Paris actor, ambitious to become a great star. How he indirectly accomplishes this purpose and wins a beautiful bride into the bargain by inadvertently kissing the wrong girl in a darkened movie theatre "One Rainy Afternoon" is hilariously depicted in this adaptation of the French comedy, "Monsieur Sans Gene."

Also prominent in the cast of the comedy are Countess Lier de Malgret, Donald Meek, Georgia Caine and Mische Auer. "One Rainy Afternoon" was directed by Rowland V. Lee. It is released through United Artists.

The fame of Claudette Colbert is not confined to the United States, where she was given the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Award for the best feminine performance of 1934.

Miss Colbert was notified recently that she has been accorded a new honor—the Scroll of Honor presented by the Associated Society of British Cinematograph Patrons. Miss Colbert was at Paramount studios completing scenes for her latest starring picture, "The Bride Comes Home," when she received word of the award. The picture is showing at the Plaza Theatre today.

Also on the bill are Jan Kiepura and Morta Egger in "My Heart is Calling."

Columbia Shows "Captain Blood"

Daring and debonair Peter Blood, immortalized by the novel of Rafael Sabatini, has been brought to life on the screen by Cosmopolitan productions in "Captain Blood," a mammoth production which opened at the Columbia Theatre today as a First National release.

The gentleman pirate of fortune is portrayed by Errol Flynn, a young Irishman comparatively new to films, but who won this role, considered one of the most important of the year, over a score of famous actors after a series of screen tests.

The late Will Rogers' film "Will Open Tomorrow"

The late Will Rogers' "A Connecticut Yankee" will open tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre.

It is all a glorious medley of fact and fancy, tailored to Rogers' lovable brand of humor. The story, which ties in neatly with present times, carries him back to somewhere in the sixteenth century, and the fun Rogers has in bamboozling and mystifying the knights of those days you will share in watching him.

Myrna Loy and Maureen O'Sullivan play the feminine leads, with William Farnum and Frank Albertson heading the supporting cast.

As the second feature is "The Country Beyond," a Royal Canadian Mounted Police story starring Rochelle Hudson and Paul Kelly.

Says It's the Same Hard Old World

THE GREATEST and most pathetic mistake that the younger generation is making consists in believing that the world has changed since the Great War, and that all life is different from what it was in their parents' and their grandparents' time.

Incredible as it seems, they actually believe that somehow a new heaven and a new earth have been created in which all the wisdom of the ancients is turned into foolishness, all of the experience by which men have learned is scrapped, and in which all the old codes and rules by which men have lived have been superseded by an entirely different new order of things.

I get hundreds of letters from boys and girls exploiting this interesting theory. "The world has changed," they tell me. "Things aren't like they were in the past. We are not going to be bound by the musty old rules that enslaved our parents. We are not going to spend our youth toiling and scrimping and saving and punching time clocks. We are going to dance and make merry, and we are still young enough to enjoy parties. We are not going to wait until we are middle-aged to have things, as our parents did. We are going to have them now.

"We are not going to wait to get married until we have some way of supporting a family. We are going to get married while we are still romantically in love, and if we don't happen to like our husbands and wives we will divorce them and try somebody else. We are not going to stick to someone we have lost our taste for just because we married 'em, as our parents did. Osh, it must have been awful to live in those times when a girl had to be pure— isn't that the laugh—and divorce was a scandal instead of a commonplace, and a boy had to be on his job early and late, to show up fresh and bright-eyed in the morning, and 1 o'clock was a late party. But, thank heaven, it is all different now. It is a changed world."

But the trouble is, it isn't a changed world. A few superficial unimportant details may be altered—we may fly through the air instead of travel by ocean—but underneath it all the same hard old world, with the same granite cliffs to be scaled, the same mountain ridges to be climbed, the same deep rivers to be crossed. Human beings are just the same. Life is just the same. We must still play the game by the same old rules that have never altered by so much as a hair's breadth.

We all have the same old stomachs that our grandfathers and great-grandfathers and great-great-grandfathers had and if we drink too much and eat too much we must pay exactly the same penalty that they paid for lack of self-control. The industrious apprentice still wins out and the lazy loafer still comes to want. Nobody has found any short cut to fortune. The road to it is still long and hard, and paved with thrift, labor and sacrifice.

Dissipation still takes the same toll of girls now as it has always done. The primrose path ends in the same old pit. Men still kiss and ride away from their mistresses when they have tired of them, and love nests are no more substantial abodes today than they were yesterday. The only place where happiness abides is in the old-fashioned home that is founded on love and honor and duty and built to last.

It is because the eternal laws of nature and of human nature which never change that make it so pathetic that the young should befool themselves with the notion that life has somehow altered so that the things that were once wrong are now right, and the things that could not be done are now feasible. It is this belief that a poor boy can get rich without working; that a boy can get to the top without struggling or self-denial; that he can become a millionaire all night and still bring a fresh body and a clear head to his business, that is going to send thousands of lads who have good material in them down into the depths of failure.

It is this belief that girls have that the world has changed so that they do not have to emulate the virtues of their mothers that is responsible for unnumbered girls reeling home drunk at dawn, and entering into free love affairs that in the end bring them to the gutter.

"Things are different now," is the slogan of the young, but it is a misleading catchword. Only the outside is changed. The fundamental facts of life are the same, and the law of cause and effect still works out to its unchanging end.

Uncle Wiggily and the Floating Whiskbroom

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Jiggie Flatfoot, the little honey-bee, and Uncle Wiggily were sitting on the steps of the hollow stump bungalow, talking. It was a warm day, and Jiggie, yawning, said:

"I wish—aw—that an adventure—aw—would come walking right up to us, don't you, Uncle Wiggily? Oh-h-h-h, my."

"Well, if that isn't the funniest way to wish for an adventure that I ever saw," Mr. Longears laughed. "You don't want an adventure—you want a nap."

"I think I want both," Jiggie answered. "First a nice quiet adventure, and then a nap. Or maybe I could fall asleep and dream of one. Then I'd be doing two things at once."

"That's the gentleman rabbit wouldn't be a real adventure. It would only be a make believe one!"

"A real one, of course," Jiggie admitted. "It was wide awake now, and wasn't yawning any more. But it doesn't look as though I'd have one, does it? Unless I go find one."

"Find what?" Nurse Jane asked, coming out at that moment. "Oh, tell me, I know what it is. I'll tell you what. I can't promise an adventure, but if you like you can both do me a favor."

"Gladly!" Uncle Wiggily exclaimed. "Do you want us to go to the store?"

"No, not this time. I want you to catch a moth for me. I saw one in the clothes closet, and if he lay eggs and the little worms that come from the eggs will eat holes in the clothes."

"I always thought it was the moths that ate the clothes!" Uncle Wiggily said.

"That's where Nurse Jane told him kindly. The moths lay eggs in the clothes and the tiny things that hatch from the eggs, and later become moths, eat the eating. But will you catch the moth for me?"

"Sure we will!" Jiggie cried. "That will be sort of an adventure, won't it, Uncle Wiggily? We'll be moth-hunters!"

So Nurse Jane gave each of them a whiskbroom and they started to empty the closet of clothes, brushing them well. After a little while Jiggie asked Mr. Longears: "Have you seen any moths yet, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Wary a moth," the rabbit gentleman answered. "Perhaps Nurse Jane was mistaken. Or maybe the moth flew away."

"I'll look in the closet," said Jiggie, and he did. But not a moth did he find. Not even a sign of one.

"I guess he's gone," Jiggie sighed. "Let's put the clothes back, Uncle Wiggily. We did the best we could, didn't we?"

They put all the clothes back and still carrying the whiskbrooms, went out to sit on the front porch again to rest. But just as they sat down, each of their whiskbrooms flew a moth!

JIGGIE CALLS THE MOTHS

"My goodness!" Jiggie gasped. "They were squeaky voices. That's the reason we hid. It was funny to see how hard you both were working, and all the while we were right in your whiskbrooms. And he gave a squeaky laugh. 'But we promise not to lay eggs in your clothes. Good-by!' And the next time, look closer to home when you want to find anything!"

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

TUESDAY, JUNE 30, 1936

Benefic aspects strongly dominate on this last day of the month. The stars smile on commerce today and seem to promise a summer of extreme activity in business.

There will be a clearing of the public mind, long disturbed by depression. Confidence, energy and initiative now should be widely apparent in the United States.

This is an auspicious date for signing contracts, leases and other legal documents. Lawyers as well as architects, carpenters and builders will be in great demand for food products, many of which will be exported.

The planetary government favors the wholesale trade in many raw materials. Farmers now should gain through increased demand for food products, many of which will be exported.

Industry is subject to stimulating influences that promise intensive work in many factories. Great demand for shoes and other leather products is prognosticated.

Air-conditioning is to become a major concern as the summer progresses. Sellers will relieve human beings of suffering from heat and make possible work in desert places.

New mining discoveries will give promise of added wealth to the United States. Again old-time boom towns will flourish in various places.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the luxury of a star change and new interests. Elders are warned not to be persuaded by too sanguine promises associated with them in business.

Children born on this day probably will be determined and industrious. Subjects of this sign make the most of their talents and opportunities.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include William Banks Caperton, admiral, 1855, and Jesse Lee Rusk, general, 1823.
